Division Engineer Begins Investigation of Boiler Explosion

BOILER IS EXAMINED
Believe Low Water Supply to Blame for Fatal Blast Wednesday

R. E. Chamberlain, division engineer of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad at Dayton is heading an investigation of the boiler explosion of a freight locomotive two miles west of Xenia Wednesday morning, which caused the death of one man, and serious injuries of two others.

Ed. Kemmer, 42, fireman, of 23 East Center Street, Dayton, was killed when the huge boiler exploded, and was carried by the force of its own blast, 260 feet up the tracks, where it fell on the bridge over Hawkins road, demolishing it. Harry Sifford, 4, Lombard Street, Dayton, engineer and Charles Brown, brakeman, 22 East Sanders Court, Dayton, are still in the Miami Valley Hospital where the former is suffering from burns, and the latter is burned badly, has a broken arm and possible internal chest injuries.

While Chamberlain is conducting his investigation to determine the cause of the explosion, and will not make a report until he has concluded, trainmen believe that the cause of the blast was due to the low water supply. According to reports, Engineer Sifford stopped the train in Trebleins to get a supply of water. It is believed he failed to replenish the water from the tank, and that the boiler was dry. The operation of the automatic injector after the train started again may have caused the explosion by forcing cold water into the hot boiler. The blast occurred about a mile east of Trebleins, and railroad mechanics who examined the boiler wreckage are said to have stated that the boiler appeared burnt, as if it had been dry before the explosion.

Carried with great force to the bridge, east of the point of explosion, the heavy boiler crashed through three steel girders and demolished the structure, tying up traffic on the road. Members of the wrecking crew sent here Wednesday, removed the twisted steel girders from the road, but the bridge can not be reconstructed until girders can be obtained. In the meantime the boiler is still lying on its side, near the side of the Hawkins road and adjacent to the Pennsylvania railroad tracks, not yet having been moved.

Kemmer was dead when found by trainmen and people who live near the scene, some distance from the place of the explosion. The body was brought to this city by Undertaker J. H. Whitmer and was taken in charge Wednesday afternoon by Undertaker Robert Risinger of Dayton, who removed the body to this city. Kemmer is survived by his widow, Daisy, and three children, Walter, Edward Jr., and Lola and two sisters Mrs. Frank Emerick and Mrs. Chas. Cunningham, Dayton. He has been employed on the railroad for about four years and previous to that time for 13 years was a member of the Dayton Fire Department.

Announcement has been made that the boiler will be inspected upon its arrival at the repair shop, at which time federal inspectors will make the examination and endeavor to determine the cause of the fatal blast.

EXPLOSIONS IN MINES ATTRIBUTED TO STRIKES

Washington, Nov. 30.—Recent explosions in bituminous coal mines, resulting in 155 deaths, are attributed to a certain extent, in a statement by Director Bain of the bureau of mines, to the miners' five months strike. "There has been a lessening of morale throughout the coal industry as a result of the strike, which tends towards a less careful attitude of mind," Mr. Bain declared. "Another probable factor is the change in personnel at the mines following the strike and the shifting of miners to camps where they are not familiar with the dangers."

NEW INVENTION SAID TO ELIMINATE COAL

Berlin, Nov. 30.—An epoch-making invention which will practically eliminate the necessity for coal has just been made by a German scientist, it is learned from an exclusive source. The invention is the culmination of decades of study and years of experimenting. It is bound to have a revolutionary effect throughout the entire world.

Details are kept a most profound secret but they are expected to be made known at least in part when a number of German industrial leaders meet here to discuss the discovery. Two or three days will be taken by the scientist to propound his invention and discoveries. Those who know the inside declare that this new discovery is of equal importance with the invention of the steam engine and the discovery of electricity.

ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF STATE IS APPOINTED

Columbus, Nov. 30.—Secretary of State-elect Thad Brown, Columbus, has today announced the appointment of J. E. Baird, Bowling Green, as assistant secretary of state effective Jan. 8. Mr. Baird for the past two years has been secretary of the public utilities commission of Ohio. He was formerly clerk of courts of Wood county, Mayor of Bowling Green and postmaster of that city for four years under former President Taft.

GRECIAN KING IS HELD UNDER GUARD IN PALACE

Refused Permission to Leave Country in Virtual Prisoner

POLICE ON GUARD
Do Not Regard Rupture Between Greece and Britain Complete.

London, Nov. 30.—King George of Greece is being held virtually a prisoner in his palace at Athens after being refused permission to leave the country, according to information received here today by way of Paris.

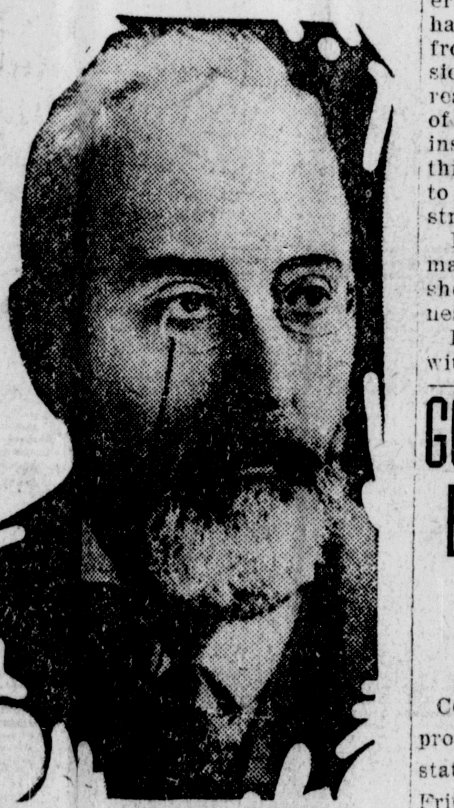

The royal palace at Athens is guarded by gendarmes under control of the Greek revolutionary committee. When King George found that he could not prevent the executions of former premier Gournaris and five other former state and military officials, he asked permission to abdicate but the revolutionary committee refused to allow him to depart.

Advices from Athens say that Premier Gonatas and other members of the Greek government do not regard the diplomatic rupture between Great Britain and Greece as complete because the first secretary of the British legation has remained behind at Athens and the British legation has been kept open.

A warrant has been issued for the arrest of General Papadoulas. He will be tried before the same military tribunal that sentenced Gen. Hadjanestis to death.

Prince Andrew, brother of Constantine, has not yet been arraigned, but his trial is expected to begin immediately. He was reported from Athens. He was formerly commander of an army division and will be charged with contributory responsibility for the Greek defeat in Asia Minor by the Turks.

May Be Governor-General of Ireland.

Timothy Healy

It is reported in British court circles that Timothy Healy will be appointed as Governor-General of the Irish Free State when the treaties between England and Ireland are ratified.

HOLIDAY CHEER HERE IN QUARTS AND PINTS

Port Jefferson, N. Y., Nov. 30.—Thanksgiving cheer will not be lacking in Port Jefferson today. This fact was established today when prohibition agents from New York City arrived to confiscate a contraband whiskey cargo from the stranded and deserted power yacht Virginia which went ashore Tuesday night. The captain and five members of the crew of the Virginia and all her wet cargo but five cases had disappeared when the revenue agents arrived.

According to information obtained by the government agents the residents of Port Jefferson and vicinity began arriving at the scene of the accident with wagons and automobiles as soon as they learned that a "whiskey runner" was ashore and deserted. Thanksgiving will mean something to a large number of people of Port Jefferson this year.

The Spirit of Thanksgiving

G. A. SCOTT
1st M. E. Church

IN this country we, as a people, ought to be controlled by the spirit of Thanksgiving. We have reason to give thanks always. This spirit comes to us from the first settlers of our land. Governor Bradford says the first New England Thanksgiving occurred within ten months from the landing of the Pilgrims at Plymouth. God gave them a harvest. Turkeys and all kinds of wild meat were abundant and easily secured. Fuel was plentiful in the uncut forest all about them. In their Thanksgiving Day they had a time for feasting and also a time for the worship of God.

The Pilgrims thanked God for a livelihood. So should we. In our country the majority of the people can make a living for themselves. This is a considerable achievement. To be able to earn a living wage should bring joy. There are vast numbers of people in the world who find themselves quite embarrassed in the presence of such a task. In many parts of the world today a majority of the people suffer great want. The hunger and suffering and need of the world ought to touch our hearts and call forth help from us. The fifty Pilgrims in their first Thanksgiving feast invited in a like number of Indians to share God's good gifts with them. We do not know what suffering is in this country. We do not know what it is in its keenest forms as some do. Our thanks to God will be made the more acceptable if we share our abundance with others.

We give thanks for the presence of God in the affairs of our nation. When Columbus landed on the shores of the New World he took possession of it in the name of God. The glory of that October morning was overshadowed by the great glory of the cross which he planted in the sands of the seashore. The Pilgrims recognized God in all their ways. Throughout all our history we have tried to submit ourselves to the guidance of God in our life and in our work. We have made mistakes, we have done much that is amiss, and we have failed to do much that we would better have done. But all the time we have sought after righteousness, and have acted according to mercy, and have walked in the way of humility. Let us be thankful for material blessings but more than for these let us be thankful that God himself is with us.

Thanksgiving Day Will Be Quiet at White House

Mrs. Harding's Illness Precludes Possibility of Gayety at Presidential Mansion—Gifts of Edibles Are Received.

Washington, Nov. 30.—Because of Mrs. Harding's illness, plans for a regular Thanksgiving observance at the White House today have been definitely abandoned.

Instead, the President and Mrs. Harding, with possibly a few intimate friends, will pass the day quietly and simply, with no formal festivity of any description. The President intends to spend most of the day in the sick room with Mrs. Harding.

While Mrs. Harding's condition is said by her personal physician, Brig. General Charles E. Sawyer, to be continually improving, she is not yet able to partake of solid foods or to stand the strain of entertaining friends. For that reason there will be no gifts.

Despite the President's edict for strict simplicity, the White House has been besieged with holiday gifts from friends all over the nation. For the Thanksgiving dinner the president already has received four turkeys, two possums and one sixty-pound pig.

White House attaches are extremely optimistic concerning Mrs. Harding's improvement. She is able, according to friends to sit up for rather long periods each day, though she has not yet recovered sufficiently from her long illness to leave the sick room. She spends some time in reading, and occasionally sees some of her closest friends. She has been instructed by General Sawyer to take things easy for a time in order not to over exert and break down her strength.

Mrs. Harding's complete recovery may not be rapid, it is said, though she has displayed marked cheerfulness and fortitude.

In order to be almost constantly with his wife, the President has denied himself all social engagements. Except when busied with work in the executive office the President remains with Mrs. Harding, and often after supper, reads to her until she falls asleep.

Only twice during her convalescence has Mrs. Harding left the White House, except for the usual afternoon of golf, which Mrs. Harding insists that he continue in order to keep in good physical condition. On armistice day President Harding went to Arlington cemetery to place a wreath on the tomb of the unknown soldier and last Tuesday he went to the capitol to address a personal message to congress, urging enactment of his merchant marine act.

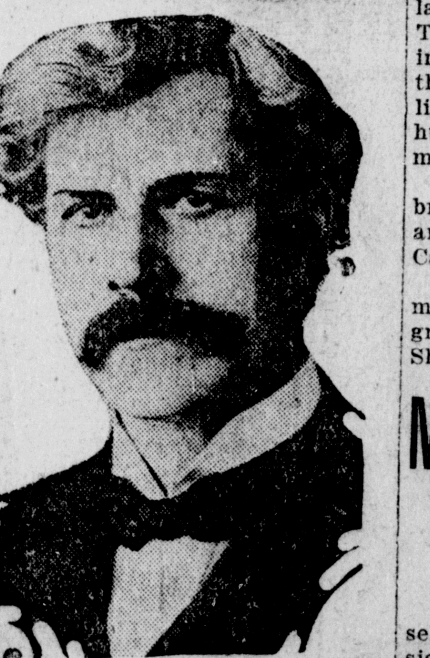

All plans for a short vacation trip this winter have been held up until definite assurances Mrs. Harding is well enough to accompany the President. It was formerly announced that the Hardings will go to Hot Springs, Va., or to the Florida sea shore some time in February or March.

DISCONTINUE STATE FUEL ORGANIZATION

Columbus, Nov. 30.—A proclamation discontinuing the state fuel administration effective Friday, December 1, next has been issued by Governor Davis.

Commending State Fuel Administrator Neal and his assistants for their services which included establishment of lower fuel prices than those existing in neighboring states, and for "the economical management of the state fuel control at a total cost of less than $15,000 out of a total appropriation of more than $1,000,000," Gov. Davis announced that "with the fuel administration having served its purpose in preventing profiteering in coal and generally protecting the consumers' interests it is my intention, if an emergency in the Ohio fuel situation should recur, during my incumbency as governor, immediately to reappoint the state fuel administrator and direct him to resume action, under the authority of the emergency fuel law."

THREE IRISH LEADERS ARE PUT TO DEATH

First Death Sentences Carried Out Since Childers'

COURT MARTIALED
Five Other Irregulars Escaped From Prison is Announced

Dublin, Nov. 30.—Three republican leaders were executed this morning by a free state firing squad. They are the first death sentences to be carried out since Erskine Childers was executed last week.

The three irregulars had been found guilty by a military tribunal of having in their possession arms for purposes of rebellion against the free state government.

They had been captured in a raid upon a house at Oriel three weeks ago. Their trials were conducted secretly and no one knew they had been sentenced to death until their executions were announced.

Five irregular prisoners have escaped from the Mt. Joy prison but it is understood that there were no important leaders among them.

"Rory" O'Connor, who commanded the republican irregulars in the battle of Dublin, is confined in Mount Joy prison.

SHERIFFS WIDOW HELD FOR HIS MURDER

Ravenna, Ohio, Nov. 30.—Mrs. Margaret Carlisle, widow of the former sheriff of Portage County, was yesterday indicted by a grand jury here on a charge of murder. The jury's investigation has been on since Monday.

Arthur C. Carlisle was shot to death in his bed at home in Kent, early on the morning of April 5. The widow was arrested at the time but later released under $10,000 bond. The dead man's trousers were found in the yard and police built up a theory that a burglar had shot Carlisle and dropped the pants in his hurry to escape. Fifty dollars in money was also reported missing.

Later a revolver of the same calibre used in the slaying was found in an old mattress in a closet of the Carlisle home.

An aged "mystery" woman's testimony is said to have determined the grand jury to indict Mrs. Carlisle. She was arrested.

MEN ALMOST DROWN IN DEEP WATER HOLE

Cincinnati, Nov. 30.—Rodman Russell, member of the board of commissioners of Covington, Ky., and Joe Thornton who was driving him to the scene of a burst high pressure water main narrowly escaped drowning Wednesday evening when their automobile struck and sank in a six foot hole dug out by the escaping water. They were dragged to safety by witnesses and the automobile later hauled up with a derrick. An emergency main was pressed into service while the shattered one was repaired.

DRY OFFICER NAMED

Washington, Nov. 30.—Roscoe C. Andrews, head of the legal division of the Chicago prohibition office, has been named by Prohibition Commissioner Haynes as acting federal prohibition director for Illinois, effective Dec. 2 when Director C. A. Gregory's resignation takes effect.

Andrews will occupy the office until a permanent director is named which will not occur until after the new year Haynes said.

SENATE SCENE OF DEADLOCK ON LYNCHING BILL

The Democratic Filibuster Against Dyer Bill Still Unbroken.

FIGHT TO FINISH

Appeals and arguments of Republicans are Without Avail.

Washington, Nov. 30.—Determination of senate Republicans to wage "a finish fight" in behalf of the Dyer anti-lynching bill failed to weaken Democratic senators in their filibuster against the measure and the senate adjourned until Friday, with no end to the filibuster in sight.

Appeals, arguments, criticism and counter-tactics were employed by the Republican in an endeavor to break through the Democratic obstruction. All, however, went for naught.

Sensors on both the Democratic and Republican sides commented on the scientific way in which the Democratic leaders conducted the filibuster. Senator Curtis, the Republican whip, asserted on the floor that congress had seen no filibuster so complete since the famous force bill was talked to death in 1891. Senator Willis, one of the strongest Republican advocates of the anti-lynching bill, went even further in a speech and said "the parliamentary history of this country discloses nothing to approach the situation which now exists in the senate."

Determination of the Democrats to continue obstruction until the Republicans agreed to lay aside the Dyer bill, was announced on the floor and in private conversation. Their determination, however, was no stronger than that of Republicans in charge of the measure. This was declared by some to point to a continuation of efforts on both sides until the extra session adjourns sine die Saturday night.

The Democrats started their tactics of obstruction by forcing a quorum call immediately the chamber adjourned. The Republicans, through Senator Curtis, promptly countered with a piece of strategy worked out by "the best minds" on the majority side, a point of order that the Democratic tactics were dilatory. This stirred the Democrats to attack and brought speeches from Senator Underwood, the minority leader, and Senator Harrison denouncing the move as savoring of "strong arm methods."

The debate gradually became centered upon the Dyer bill, with Senators New and Willis arguing for its passage.

Later the discussion turned to its origin with Senator Caraway declaring he was of the opinion that it was formulated "by an association having white officers, but having to do with negroes and with offices in New York."

SHIPPING BILL PASSES HOUSE GOES TO SENATE

Subsidy Act Passes House By Margin of Only 24 Votes

OHIO FAVORS ACT

Many Changes Made When Bill Goes to Senate Finally

Washington, Nov. 30.—The administration shipping bill, around which was waged the most bitter partisan fight of the present congress, was passed by the house with 24 votes to spare. The final count was 208 to 184. Sixty-nine Republicans broke away from their party organization and opposed the bill, while four Democrats supported it.

There never was much doubt about the result, but the margin by which it went through was much lower than estimates publicly given by most of the leaders. It was, however, just about what they figured on privately.

In the face of threats to delay, if not prevent its passage by the senate, the measure will go Monday to the senate committee, which plans to accept it as passed by the house and take the fight to the floor next week.

The usual motion to recommit, for the purpose of striking out the provision relating to tax exemptions and direct compensation, was made by Representative Hardy of Texas, ranking Democrat of the merchant marine committee, which framed it, and was defeated, 215 to 172.

Chairman Greene of the merchant marine committee and Representative Edmonds of Pennsylvania, ranking Republicans, who shouldered the fight through the house, declared that despite amendments the measure would pave the way for putting the American flag at a high place on the seas.

Liquor Subject Ignored.
As passed by the house, no line was left in the bill relating to the subject of liquor selling on American ships. When the question was reached in committee of the whole the Bankhead out-and-out prohibition proposal was put aside and a substitute offered by Mr. Edmonds accepted. It stipulated that if a ship, on any particular voyage, permitted the transportation of liquor it could not share in a subsidy for that voyage.

The Edmonds amendment went out on a demand for a separate vote in the house by Representative Cramton, Republican of Michigan, an advocate of prohibition enforcement, who contended that it was not as strong as existing law and might be construed by some as wiping out the present statute.

A voice from Massachusetts was lifted against the bill, Representative Andrew, Republican of that state, declaring it offered a dangerous precedent, which, if adopted, "will wound us for years to come."

Now and then there was a brief flurry of political talk, but the leaders, holding their forces in line, presented and put through motion after motion to shut off debate. After passing the bill the house quit for Thanksgiving.

Sixteen of Ohio's 22 Republican congressmen voted for the bill, four voted against it, one did not vote and one was paired for the bill. The vote follows: For the bill, Beggs, Burton, Chalmers, Foss, Fitzgerald, Foster, Himes, Kearns, Longworth, Ricketts and Stephens; against the bill, Cooper, Gahn, Knight and Spears. Paired for the bill, Thompson. Not voting, Cole.

The house made a number of changes in the bill as reported by the committee. One of them gave congress the right to appropriate annually out of the merchant marine fund the money necessary to carry out the provisions of the act. Another provided that industrial ships, such as those owned by the Standard Oil company, should not collect compensation on any portion of a vessel carrying cargo of the ship's owners.

The provisions of the bill giving income tax reductions to shippers sending their goods in American vessels was stricken out, and the house also stipulated that the steamship Leviathan should not be sold for less than the cost of reconditioning—$8,166,000.

Death of a 6-year-old boy and a year-old man sent Cleveland's traffic death toll to 113.

Division Engineer Begins Investigation of Boiler Explosion

BOILER IS EXAMINED

Believe Low Water Supply to Blame for Fatal Blast
Wednesday

R. E. Chamberlain, division engineer of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad at Dayton is heading an investigation of the boiler explosion of a freight locomotive two miles west of Xenia Wednesday morning, which caused the death of one man, and the serious injuries of two others.

Ed. Kemmer, 42, fireman, of 38 East Center Street, Dayton, was killed when the huge boiler exploded, and was carried by the force of its own blast, 260 feet up the tracks, where it fell on the bridge over Hawkins road, demolishing it. Harry Sifford, 4, Lombard Street, Dayton, engineer and Charles Brown, brakeman, 22 East Sanders Court, Dayton, are still in the Miami Valley Hospital where the former is suffering from burns, and the latter is burned badly, has a broken arm and possible internal chest injuries.

While Chamberlain is conducting his investigation to determine the cause of the explosion, and will not make a report until he has concluded, trainmen believe that the cause of the blast was due to the low water supply. According to reports, Engineer Sifford stopped the train in Trebeins to get a supply of water. It is believed he failed to replenish the water from the tank, and that the boiler was dry. The operation of the automatic injector after the train started again may have caused the explosion by forcing cold water into the hot boiler. The blast occurred about a mile east of Trebeins, and railroad mechanics who examined the boiler wreckage are said to have stated that the boiler appeared burnt, as if it had been dry before the explosion.

Carried with great force to the bridge, east of the point of explosion, the heavy boiler crashed through three steel girders and demolished the structure, tying up traffic on the road. Members of the wrecking crew sent here Wednesday, removed the twisted steel girders from the road, but the bridge can not be reconstructed until girders can be obtained. In the meantime the boiler is still lying on its side, near the side of the Hawkins road and adjacent to the Pennsylvania railroad tracks, and having been found by trainmen and people who live near the scene, some distance from the place of the explosion. The body was brought to this city by Undertaker J. H. Whittner and was taken in charge Wednesday afternoon by Undertaker Robert Risinger of Dayton, who removed the body to that city. Kemmer is survived by his widow, Daisy, and three children, Walter, Edward Jr., and John, and two sisters, Mrs. Frank Emerick and Mrs. Chas. Cunningham, Dayton. He has been employed on the railroad for about four years and previous to that time for 13 years was a member of the Dayton Fire Department.

Announcement has been made that the boiler will be inspected upon its arrival at the repair shop, at which time federal inspectors will make the examination and endeavor to determine the cause of the fatal blast.

GOVERNOR DAVIS ENDS STATE FUEL ADMINISTRATION

Columbus, Nov. 30.—Governor Davis proclaimed the termination of the state fuel administration, effective Friday. The move had been anticipated in view of the action of Administrator Clarence J. Neal in making public a statement outlining the accomplishments of his department, and recommending the abandonment of the regulatory machinery.

After outlining the emergency situation, which resulted in the calling of the general assembly into special session, the enactment of the regulatory act and the inauguration of a fuel administration in Ohio, Governor Davis, in his proclamation, commends Administrator Neal and his subordinates for their work and the effect of such regulation and price-fixing on the coal market.

The governor said that, in the event of a recurrence of "an emergency in the Ohio fuel situation," he will "immediately reappoint the state fuel administrator and direct him to resume action under the authority of the emergency fuel law."

SENATE SCENE OF DEADLOCK ON LYNCHING BILL

The Democratic Filibuster Against Dyer Bill Still Unbroken.

FIGHT TO FINISH

Appeals and arguments of Republicans are With- out Avail.

Washington, Nov. 30.—Determination of senate Republicans to wage "a finish fight" in behalf of the Dyer anti-lynching bill failed to weaken Democratic senators in their filibuster against the measure and the senate adjourned until Friday, with no end to the filibuster in sight.

Appeals, arguments, criticism and counter-tactics were employed by the Republican in an endeavor to break through the Democratic obstruction. All, however, went for naught.

Sensors on both the Democratic and Republican sides commented on the scientific way in which the Democratic leaders conducted the filibuster. Senator Curtis, the Republican whip, asserted on the floor that congress had seen no filibuster so complete since the famous force bill was talked to death in 1891. Senator Willis, one of the strongest Republican advocates of the anti-lynching bill, went even further in a speech and said "the parliamentary history of this country discloses nothing to approach the situation which now exists in the senate."

Determination of the Democrats to continue obstruction until the Republicans agreed to lay aside the Dyer bill, was announced on the floor and in private conversation. Their determination, however, was no stronger than that of Republicans in charge of the measure. This was declared by some to point to a continuation of efforts on both sides until the extra session adjourns sine die Saturday night.

The Democrats started their tactics of obstruction by forcing a quorum call immediately the chaplain's son, included his prayer. The Republicans, through Senator Curtis, promptly countered with a piece of strategy worked out by "the best minds" on the majority side, a point of order that the Democratic tactics were dilatory. This stirred the Democrats to attack and brought speeches from Senator Underwood, the minority leader, and Senator Harrison denouncing the move as savoring of "strong arm methods."

The debate gradually became centered upon the Dyer bill, with Senators New and Willis arguing for its passage.

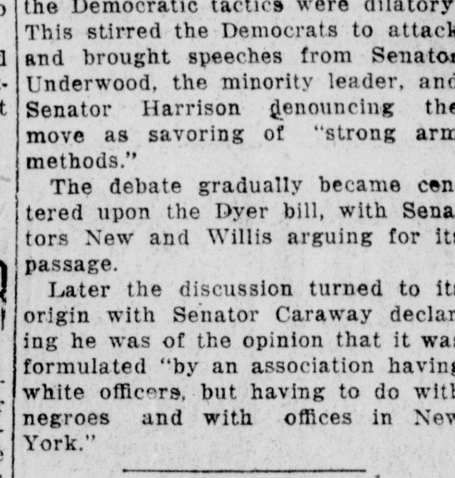

Later the discussion turned to its origin with Senator Caraway declaring he was of the opinion that it was formulated "by an association having white officers, but having to do with negroes and with offices in New York."

Sixteen of Ohio's 22 Republican congressmen voted for the bill, four voted against it, one did not vote and one was paired for the bill. The vote follows: For the bill, Begg, Burton, Chalmers, Foss, Fitzgerald, Foster, Himes, Kearns, Longworth, Ricketts and Stephens; against the bill, Cooper, Gahn, Knight and Spears. Paired for the bill, Thompson. Not voting, Cole.

The house made a number of changes in the bill as reported by the committee. One of them gave congress the right to appropriate annually out of the merchant marine fund the money necessary to carry out the provisions of the act. Another provided that industrial ships, such as those owned by the Standard Oil company, should not collect compensation on any portion of a vessel carrying cargo of the ship's owners.

The provisions of the bill giving income tax reductions to shippers sending their goods in American vessels was stricken out, and the house also stipulated that the steamship Leviathan should not be sold for less than the cost of reconstruction—$8,166,000.

They were dragged to safety by witnesses and the automobile later hauled up with a derrick. An emergency main was pressed into service while the shattered one was repaired.

SHIPPING BILL PASSES HOUSE GOES TO SENATE

Subsidy Act Passes House By Margin of Only 24 Votes

OHIO FAVORS ACT

Many Changes Made When Bill Goes to Senate Finally

Washington, Nov. 30.—The administration shipping bill, around which was waged the most bitter partisan fight of the present congress, was passed by the house with 24 votes to spare. The final count was 208 to 184.

Sixty-nine Republicans broke away from their party organization and opposed the bill, while four Democrats supported it.

There never was much doubt about the result, but the margin by which it went through was much lower than estimates publicly given by most of the leaders. It was, however, just about what they figured on privately.

In the face of threats to delay, if not prevent its passage by the senate, the measure will go Monday to the senate committee, which plans to accept it as passed by the house and take the fight to the floor next week.

The usual motion to recommitt, for the purpose of striking out the provision relating to tax exemptions and direct compensation, was made by Representative Hardy of Texas, ranking Democrat of the merchant marine committee, which framed it, and was defeated, 215 to 172.

Chairman Greene of the merchant marine committee and Representative Edmonds of Pennsylvania, ranking Republicans, who shouldered the fight through the house, declared that despite amendments the measure would pave the way for putting the American flag at a high place on the seas.

Liquor Subject Ignored.

As passed by the house, no line was left in the bill relating to the subject of liquor selling on American ships. When the question was reached in committee of the whole the Bankhead out-and-out prohibition proposal was put aside and a substitute offered by Mr. Edmonds accepted. It stipulated that if a ship, on any particular voyage, permitted the transportation of liquor it could not share in a subsidy for that voyage.

The Edmonds amendment went out on a demand for a separate vote in the house by Representative Cranton, Republican of Michigan, an advocate of prohibition enforcement, who contended that it was not as strong as existing law and might be construed by some as wiping out the present statute.

A voice from Massachusetts was lifted against the bill, Representative Andrew, Republican of that state, declaring it offered a dangerous precedent, which, if adopted, "will wound us for years to come."

Now and then there was a brief flurry of political talk, but the leaders, holding their forces in line, presented and put through motion after motion to shut off debate. After passing the bill the house quit for Thanksgiving.

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

If Mixed with Sulphur It Darkens So Naturally Nobody Can Tell

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible we are lying in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mossy mixture at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product, improved by the addition of other ingredients called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies is that besides beautifully keeping the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft and appearance of abundance so attractive.

BASKETBALL HAS ROSEY SEASON AHEAD PRESENT OUTLOOK FOR YEAR 1923 SHOWS; RULES CHANGED

With the season of 1921-22 down in basketball history as the most prosperous in the history of the court game, there is every indication that the cage season approaching will see the sport reaching even greater heights.

An indication of the rapid increase of the outdoor game in popularity is evidenced in the fact that the Joint Committee Rules are now officially translated into Chinese, Japanese and Spanish and are being used in China, Japan and South America.

In addition the number of amateur and independent court aggregations increased so greatly last season that added to the collegiate and preparatory school teams that are also increasing in number, there were probably more basketball teams playing last year than ever before in history. This indicates that the sport will be in an exceedingly robust condition during the 1922-23 season.

The Joint Committee on Rules, which has been working to eliminate the fouls that clutter up the pastime and slow up the games, has taken an important step in that direction by accepting the report of the special committee appointed for that purpose, which has resulted in elimination of four technical offenses from the list of fouls. Instead of being technical fouls on which a free throw is permitted the offending side, the violations of running with the ball, kicking or striking the ball with the fists, violating the jumping rules, passing the ball to another player while attempting a free throw and "double dribble," are continued in the list of offenses, but there is no free throw, the ball being given to the offended side out of bounds. This one change should greatly speed up the pastime.

Another radical change has been the creation of goal zones on the court, the goal zone to be a continuation of the present free throw lines, but to run 17 feet from the end lines and across the court. Personal fouls committed in this zone by the defending team give the non-offending team two free throws. The personal fouls coming under this classification are holding, blocking, tripping, charging pushing and unnecessary roughness.

The new rules also more clearly define the violation of running, providing that, a player standing still with the ball shall not be considered running if he takes one step in any direction as long as the other foot is on the floor, but that he must get rid of the ball or begin dribbling as soon as the other foot leaves the floor. Allowance will also be made by officials for players who receive the ball while running.

Other minor changes include change regarding times out and the rule that the referee must request the co-operation of the umpire in "out-of-bounds" and "coaching" decisions. The new rules also provide that games between preparatory schools such as high schools, shall be divided into eight minute quarters instead of 20 minute halves. The rules say that games between each quarter and ten minutes between halves. The rules say that games between boys under 16 years of age should be divided into six minute quarters.

In addition, the questions and answers always included after the regulation rules, are included as part of the rules by the action of the last committee.

These changes in rules should and are expected to be a distinct contribution to the game and will further popularize the sport it is believed.

BAD BREATH

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Get at the Cause and Remove It

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, act gently on the bowels and positively do the work. People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

All the benefits of nasty, sickening, gripping cathartics are derived from Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets without gripping, pain or any disagreeable effects. Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after seventeen years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color. Take one or two every night for a week and note the effect. 15c and 30c.

BASKETBALL HAS ROSEY SEASON AHEAD PRESENT OUTLOOK FOR YEAR 1923 SHOWS; RULES CHANGED

With the season of 1921-22 down in basketball history as the most prosperous in the history of the court game, there is every indication that the cage season approaching will see the sport reaching even greater heights.

An indication of the rapid increase of the outdoor game in popularity is evidenced in the fact that the Joint Committee Rules are now officially translated into Chinese, Japanese and Spanish and are being used in China, Japan and South America.

In addition the number of amateur and independent court aggregations increased so greatly last season that added to the collegiate and preparatory school teams that are also increasing in number, there were probably more basketball teams playing last year than ever before in history. This indicates that the sport will be in an exceedingly robust condition during the 1922-23 season.

The Joint Committee on Rules, which has been working to eliminate the fouls that clutter up the pastime and slow up the games, has taken an important step in that direction by accepting the report of the special committee appointed for that purpose, which has resulted in elimination of four technical offenses from the list of fouls. Instead of being technical fouls on which a free throw is permitted the fouls are now the fouls of running with the ball, kicking or striking the ball with the fists, violating the jumping rules, passing the ball to another player while attempting a free throw and "double dribble," are continued in the list of offenses, but there is no free throw, the ball being given to the fouled side out of bounds. This one change should greatly speed up the pastime.

Another radical change has been the creation of goal zones on the court, the goal zone to be a continuation of the present free throw lines, but to run 17 feet from the end lines and across the court. Personal fouls committed in this zone by the fouling team gives the non-fouling team two free throws. The personal fouls coming under this classification are holding, blocking, tripping, charging pushing and unnecessary roughness.

The new rules also more clearly define the violation of running, providing that a player standing still with the ball shall not be considered.

Other minor changes include change regarding times out and the rule that the referee must request the cooperation of the umpire in "out-of-bounds" and "coaching" decisions. The new rules also provide that games between preparatory schools such as high schools, shall be divided into eight minute quarters instead of 20 minute halves. The rules say that games between boys under 16 years of age should be divided into six minute quarters.

In addition, the questions and answers always included after the regulation rules, are included as part of the rules by the action of the last committee.

These changes in rules should and are expected to be a distinct contribution to the game and will further popularize the sport it is believed.

running if he takes one step in any direction as long as the other foot is on the floor, but that he must get rid of the ball or begin dribbling as soon as the other foot leaves the floor. Allowance will also be made by officials for players who receive the ball while running.

EDUCATION WEEK
TO BE OBSERVED IN GREENE COUNTY

In accordance with proclamations issued by President Harding and Governor Harry L. Davis, County Superintendent of Schools, H. C. Aultman has set aside the week of December 3-9, for the observance of "American Education Week" in the schools of Greene County.

The local schools, according to Mr. Aultman will follow the program recommended by the American Legion, during the week. The Legion, the National Education Association, and the United States Bureau of Education, have joined their forces on the promotion of the week. "The object of this week is to focus the attention of the people of all the states upon education and to build up state and national sentiment for the improvement of the schools and the furtherance of desirable educational aims," according to the proclamation issued by Governor Davis with reference to the week.

The proclamation in part follows: "Ohio's chief bulwark will always be her system of schools and the efforts of all right thinking men and women will always be devoted to maintaining them in full vigor and unimpeded."

Progress has been made in this state in an educational way and it has been my privilege and pleasure as Governor to aid in this direction. The summit has not been reached, however, and lagging back now might be fatal. The appeal still goes forth to every one to maintain an alert interest in education. By taking thought for this one week of our great educational investment we can add many rubs to its towering stature.

Present results should be conserved and increased until Ohio moves from twelfth place among the states to a still higher ranking. Therefore, I call upon all individuals and organizations in the state interested in the welfare and advancement of our people through public education to join in the observance of American Education Week for 1922, by meeting for discussion and study of the educational achievements and the educational needs of Ohio.

Especially do I ask for the support in this great work of the churches and Sunday Schools, the great fraternal orders, the civic clubs, the women's clubs, labor organizations, chambers of commerce, and the press of the state. The American Legion posts, the various school officers, and the Parent-Teacher Association throughout the state will be depended upon to exist every influence to make this week of outstanding significance.

I set for Ohio this date nationally proposed and hereby designate the week of December 3-9 as American Education Week in this state."

The following program of work and co-operation will be followed by school officials of the county, in observing the week:

First, urging ministers of all denominations to preach upon the subject of education, Sunday, December 3, second that the newspapers may give all space possible to educational matters, articles, editorials and news material, third, urging the merchants to use window displays appropriate for the occasion, and to devote as much space as possible to matters of educational interest. In their newspaper advertisements, fourth, the showing of slides in moving picture houses, urging the people to visit the schools and study educational questions, fifth, speakers at all public meetings held that week, to talk a few minutes on

Dayton, Ohio.—"I had such pains that I had to be turned in bed every time I wished to move. They said an operation was necessary. My mother would keep saying: 'Why don't you take Pinkham's, Henrietta?' and I'd say, 'Oh, mamma, it won't help me, I've tried too much.' One day she said, 'Let me get you one bottle of each kind. You won't be out very much if it don't help you.' I don't know if you will believe me or not, but I only took two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and one of Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine when I began to get relief and I am regular ever since without a pain or a headache."

When I lie down I can get up without help and without pain. I can't begin to tell you how I feel and look. I have begun to gain in weight and look more like I ought to. I think every day of ways I have been helped. Any one who does not believe me can write to me and I will tell them what shape I was in. I am ready to do anything I can to help your medicine."—MRS. The necessity of education; and sixth, to co-operate with the education officials and other patriotic civic and fraternal organizations.

In furthering the plan, superintendent Aultman is urging that Parent-Teacher Associations be informed in every large school community in the county, in order to promote the following fundamentals, as referred from the nation organization:

1. Pre-school age study circles.
2. An appreciation of good books, good pictures, and good music.
3. A real love for home.
4. Health and Thrift habits.
5. Wholesome recreation.
6. Simplicity and suitability of dress.
7. Physical education in every school.
8. Closer relationship between parent and teachers.
9. Recreation evenings—parents, teachers, pupils taking part.
10. Stay at home evenings.
11. Being a parent to some school that needs you.

Several Parent-Teacher Associations have been formed in county school communities, according to Mr. Aultman, who is urging the county-wide organization believing that every school board should be supported by one or more such organizations. It is expected that a general meeting will be held in January of representatives of the county districts, when a county organization will be affected. "I am urging the observance of 'Education Week' in every district in a manner that will be of interest and benefit to the children of the county," said superintendent Aultman, Wednesday.

"Last year 3,000 parents visited the schools during 'Education Week,' many helpful things having resulted from their interest," he continued.

Mrs. Nan B. Miller, president of the Ohio Branch of the National Congress of Mothers, and the Parent-Teacher Associations, has referred the following program from the observance of the week:

1. For God and Country, Sunday, December 3.
2. American Citizenship Day, Monday, December 4.
3. Patriotism Day, Tuesday, December 5.
4. School and Teacher Day, Wednesday, December 6.
5. Illiteracy Day, Thursday, December 7.
6. Equality of Opportunity, Friday, December 8.
7. Physical Education Day, Saturday, December 9.

SUPPER FROM A CAN OF CORN

Corn is a versatile vegetable. A can of corn will make many delicious luncheon or supper dishes. Try the following supper menus:

Corn Mash on Toast
Wholewheat Gems
Gingerbread
Cocoa
Preserves
Iced Cup Cakes

Corn Fritters: Sift together one cup of bread flour, one and one-half teaspoon of salt, one-fourth teaspoon of paprika and one heaping teaspoon of baking powder. Stir this mixture into one can of corn (which has been drained out to a mixing bowl.) Mix to a stiff batter. A little more flour may have to be added if the canned corn is too liquid. Stir in two well-beaten eggs and fry, by tablespoonfuls, in a frying pan till a light brown. Bacon fat is especially good to use in frying them.

Creamed Corn au Gratin
Cocoa
Spice Cakes
Preserves

Creamed Corn au Gratin: Rub one cup of bread flour into one fourth cup of butter which you have melted, then add one and one-half cups of sweet milk, gradually, and stir till smooth. Let boil up once or twice and season with one teaspoon of salt and a dash of black pepper. Now add to this sauce one pint of canned corn. Let boil up for a few minutes, then turn all into a medium-sized baking dish. Cover with three-fourth cup of fine cracker crumbs mixed with one-third cup of melted butter. Bake fifteen minutes in a hot oven, and serve very hot.

AN EVENTFUL MOTOR RIDE
Chapter 40

Grace and George Harter invited Walter and me for a motor ride and dinner. George drove and insisted I sit beside him, while Grace and Walter got into the tonneau. Walter was nothing loth, saying: "I drive so much it will be a treat to laze."

I would much preferred sitting with Walter, but of course could make no objection to the arrangement. George was in high spirits and drove recklessly. I expostulated with him, even calling to Walter and Grace to make him stop.

"We'll be arrested," I complained. "Never mind! We'll get off if we do. I'm not driving as fast as Walter was the other night when I passed him with that handsome model of his."

"I was going a pretty good gait," Walter laughed, "but I was hurrying to get home. Doreen was worried over a new servant, and I didn't want to make her wait."

"Jennie gone?" Grace asked. "She's back now, was away for a little." I said, happy that Walter had replied as he had.

Just then I heard a call and a traffic policeman halted us. "Have you? Do you know how fast you are driving?" he asked, coming alongside with his motorcycle. "My mother is ill, and we are hurrying to her," George replied, his face serious.

"Well, go a bit slower—thank you," the officer slipped a couple of George's expensive cigars in his pocket and left us.

"See! I told you we'd get off!" and stepping on the gas he again went flying over the road at a terrific speed.

We turned a sharp corner, a grinding of brakes—but not in time—and we crashed into the rear of a one horse vegetable wagon, throwing the vegetables all over the road. We were jarred, but fortunately no one was hurt; the man landing on the grass at the side of the road.

"You'll pay me for my load!" he said, shaking his fist as he picked himself up. "I'll have you arrested if you don't."

"Don't get excited. How much was it worth?" George was rather white and Walter and Grace looked frightened. I was trembling, but more with anger than fear. We might have killed the man, been killed ourselves."

The man said $15 would pay him, and without a word George handed it to him. After that he drove more sanely. As it was a lovely day we all enjoyed ourselves until we stopped at a road-house in Westchester for dinner.

We had scarcely seated ourselves when Helen Ralstrom and a young man appeared. We bowed, but as they were about to pass on George sprang up and said: "Join us, Hays, you and Miss Ralstrom. The more the merrier, you know."

They needed no urging, and after presenting Mr. Hays to me they sat down. The rest knew him.

Helen sat between Walter and her own escort, but most of the time she talked to Walter, while Grace chatted with Hays. There was dancing after dinner and George asked me to dance immediately. He was our host so I could not well refuse, but I felt indignant when I saw Helen and Walter together. He should have asked Grace, and left Helen to Mr. Hays.

I loved to dance, but my evening was spoiled. I watched Walter and Helen, and it seemed to me they seemed too serious in their talk that they were too much engaged with each other.

And when after dancing just once with me and Grace, he gave the rest of the dances to her, my jealousy flamed. I said: "You are monopolizing Miss after strom, Walter. You forget she zines, with Mr. Hays." Grace stepped led in too, trying to stop me, but I on Bar attention.

"Oh, Will is a miserable & in the Don't think I would dance wCarpen when Walter is around!" Hellearst's wered with a laugh. "I'm noered in punishing myself."

Do patrons of Ohio Building Associations sometimes lose money? Yes, but the chance for loss is so small that it need not even be considered. Figures taken from public records show, that had the Ohio Associations been doing business since a date 30,000 years before the beginning of history, and if their patrons had been losing money at the present rate during all that time, they would still hold intact more than a Hundred Million Dollars of their patrons' savings.

This is not exaggeration, but the indisputable record of the "average" Ohio Association and we are prepared to show the data upon which that statement is based. We have striven to make, and keep, this association, not only as good as the "average," but one of the best of its kind, and believe that it is entitled to your fullest trust and confidence.

Several Parent-Teacher Associations have been formed in county school communities, according to Mr. Aultman, who is urging the county-wide organization believing that every school board should be supported by one or more such organizations. It is expected that a general meeting will be held in January of representatives of the county districts, when a county organization will be effected. "I am urging the observance of 'Education Week' in every district in a manner that will be of interest and benefit to the children of the county," said superintendent Aultman, Wednesday.

"Last year 3,000 parents visited the schools during 'Education Week,' many helpful things having resulted from their interest," he continued.

Mrs. Nan B. Miller, president of the Ohio Branch of the National Congress of Mothers, and the Parent-Teacher Associations, has referred the following program from the observance of the week:

SUPPER FROM A CAN OF CORN

Corn is a versatile vegetable. A can of corn will make many delicious luncheon or supper dishes. Try the following supper menus:

Corn Mash: Drain liquor from one can of corn, then put the corn through your food chopper. Put into a saucepan, over a hot fire, three green peppers with water to cover; boil the peppers (seeds and stems removed) till soft, then drain them from the water and put them through the food chopper, also. Put one small, peeled onion through the chopper, then cook the chopped onion in a little butter till soft. Now put all three vegetables—the corn, the green peppers and the onion—into a medium-sized saucepan together; season them with one teaspoon of salt, a pinch of cayenne, add one-half cup of cream, and heat thoroughly, then add one well-beaten egg and let cook a

AN EVENTFUL MOTOR RIDE

Chapter 40

Grace and George Harter invited Walter and me for a motor ride and dinner. George drove and insisted I sit beside him, while Grace and Walter got into the tonneau. Walter was nothing loth, saying:

"I drive so much it will be a treat to 'go.'"

I would much preferred sitting with

Walter, but of course could make no objection to the arrangement. George was in high spirits and drove recklessly. I expostulated with him, even calling to Walter and Grace to make him stop.

"We'll be arrested," I complained.

"Never mind! We'll get off if we do. I'm not driving as fast as Walter was the other night when I passed him with that handsome model of his."

"I was going a pretty good gallop,"

Walter laughed, "but I was hurrying to get home. Doreen was worried over a new servant, and I didn't want to make her wait."

"Jennie gone?" Grace asked.

"She's back now, was away for a little," I said, happy that Walter had replied as he had.

Just then I heard a call and a traffic police man hailed us.

"E. ye you! Do you know how fast you are driving?" he asked, coming alongside with his motorcycle.

"My mother is ill, and we are hurrying to her," George replied, his face serious.

"Well, go a bit slower—thank you,"

the officer slipped a couple of

George's expensive cigars in his pocket

"See! I told you we'd get off!"

and stepping on the gas he again went flying over the road at a terrific speed.

We turned a sharp corner, a grinding of brakes—but not in time—and we crashed into the rear of a one horse vegetable wagon, throwing the vegetables all over the road. We were jarred, but fortunately no one was hurt; the man landing on the grass at the side of the road.

"You'll pay me for my load!" he said, shaking his fist as he picked himself up. "I'll have you arrested if you don't."

"Don't get excited. How much was it worth?" George was rather white and Walter and Grace looked frightened. I was trembling, but more with anger than fear. We might have killed the man, been killed ourselves."

The man said $15 would pay him, and without a word George handed it to him. After that he drove more safely. As it was a lovely day we all enjoyed ourselves until we stopped at a road-house in Westchester for dinner.

We had scarcely seated ourselves when Helen Ralston and a young man appeared. We bowed, but as they were about to pass on George sprang up and said:

"Join us, Hays, you and Miss Ralstrom. The more the merrier, you know."

"They needed no urging, and after presenting Mr. Hays to me they sat down. The rest knew him.

Helen sat between Walter and her own escort, but most of the time she talked to Walter, while Grace chatted with Hays. There was dancing after dinner and George asked me to dance immediately. He was our host so I could not well refuse, but

I felt indignant when I saw Helen and Walter together. He should have asked Grace, and left Helen to Mr.

Hays.

I loved to dance, but my evening was spoiled. I watched Walter and Helen, and it seemed to me they seemed too serious in their talk that they were too much engaged with each other.

And when after dancing just once with me and Grace, he gave the rest

WOULD NOT LOSE ALL IN 30,000 YEARS

Do patrons of Ohio Building Associations sometimes lose money? Yes, but the chance for loss is so small that it need not even be considered. Figures taken from public records show, that had the Ohio Associations been doing business since a date 30,000 years before the beginning of history, and if their patrons had been losing money at the present rate during all that time, they would still hold intact more than a Hundred Million Dollars of their patrons' savings.

This is not exaggeration, but the indisputable record of the "average" Ohio Association and we are prepared to show the data upon which that statement is based. We have striven to make, and keep, this association, not only as good as the "average," but one of the best of its kind, and believe that it is entitled to your fullest trust and confidence.

TURN HAIR DARK
WITH SAGE TEA

If Mixed with Sulphur It Darkens So Naturally Nobody Can Tell

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible we are lying in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixture at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is that besides beautifully coloring the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft and appearance of abundance so attractive.

BAD BREATH

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Get at the Cause and Remove It

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, act gently on the bowels and positively do the work.

People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

All the benefits of nasty, sickening, gripping cathartics are derived from Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets without gripping, pain or any disagreeable effects. Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after seventeen years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color. Take one or two every night for a week and note the effect. 15c and 30c.

BASKETBALL HAS ROSEY SEASON AHEAD PRESENT OUTLOOK FOR YEAR 1923 SHOWS; RULES CHANGED

With the season of 1921-22 down in basketball history as the most prosperous in the history of the court game, there is every indication that the cage season approaching will see the sport reaching even greater heights.

An indication of the rapid increase of the outdoor game in popularity is evidenced in the fact that the Joint Committee Rules are now officially translated into Chinese, Japanese and Spanish and are being used in China, Japan and South America.

In addition the number of amateur and independent court aggregations increased so greatly last season, that added to the collegiate and preparatory school teams that are also increasing in number, there were probably more basketball teams playing last year than ever before in history. This indicates that the sport will be in an exceedingly robust condition during the 1922-23 season.

The Joint Committee on Rules, which has been working to eliminate the fouls that clutter up the pastime and slow up the games, has taken an important step in that direction by accepting the report of the special committee appointed for that purpose, which has resulted in elimination of four technical offenses from the list of fouls. Instead of being technical fouls on which a free throw is permitted the fouls are now the violations of running with the ball, kicking or striking the ball with the fists, violating the jumping rules, passing the ball to another player while attempting a free throw and "double dribble," are continued in the list of offenses, but there is no free throw, the ball being given to the offended side out of bounds. This one change should greatly speed up the pastime.

Another radical change has been the creation of goal zones on the court, the goal zone to be a continuation of the present free throw lines, but to run 17 feet from the end lines and across the court. Personal fouls committed in this zone by the defending team give the non-offending team two free throws. The personal fouls coming under this classification are holding, blocking, tripping, charging pushing and unnecessary roughness.

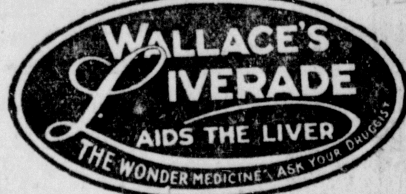

The new rules also more clearly define the violation of running, providing that, a player standing still with the ball shall not be considered running if he takes one step in any direction as long as the other foot is on the floor, but that he must get rid of the ball or begin dribbling as soon as the other foot leaves the floor. Allowance will also be made by officials for players who receive the ball while running.

Other minor changes include change regarding times out and the rule that the referee must request the co-operation of the umpire in "out-of-bounds" and "coaching" decisions. The new rules also provide that games between preparatory schools such as high schools, shall be divided into eight minute quarters instead of 20 minute halves. The rules say that games between quarter and ten minutes between halves. The rules say that games between boys under 16 years of age should be divided into six minute quarters.

In addition, the questions and answers always included after the regulation rules, are included as part of the rules by the action of the last committee.

These changes in rules should and are expected to be a distinct contribution to the game and will further popularize the sport it is believed.

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

If Mixed with Sulphur It Darkens So Naturally Nobody Can Tell

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible. We are lying in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixture at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft and appearance of abundance and attractiveness. adv

BAD BREATH

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Get at the Cause and Remove It

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, act gently on the bowels and positively do the work.

People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

All the benefits of nasty, sickening, griping cathartics are derived from Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets without griping, pain or any disagreeable effects. Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after seventeen years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color. Take one or two every night for a week and note the effect. 15c and 30c.

BASKETBALL HAS ROSEY SEASON AHEAD PRESENT OUTLOOK FOR YEAR 1923 SHOWS; RULES CHANGED

With the season of 1922-23 down in basketball history as the most prosperous in the history of the sport, there is every indication that the cage season approaching will see the sport reaching even greater heights.

An indication of the rapid increase of the outdoor game in popularity is evidenced in the fact that the Joint Committee Rules are now officially translated into Chinese, Japanese and Spanish and are being used in China, Japan and South America.

In addition the number of amateur and independent court aggregations increased so greatly last season that added to the collegiate and preparatory school teams that are also increasing in number, there were probably more basketball teams playing last year than ever before in history. This indicates that the sport will be in an exceedingly robust condition during the 1922-23 season.

The Joint Committee on Rules, which has been working to eliminate the fouls that clutter up the pastime and slow up the games, has taken an important step in that direction by accepting the report of the special committee appointed for that purpose, which has resulted in elimination of four technical offenses from the list of fouls. Instead of being technical fouls on which a free throw is permitted the fouls are now the fouls of running with the ball, kicking or striking the ball with the fists, violating the jumping rules, passing the ball to another player while attempting a free throw and "double dribble," are continued in the list of offenses, but there is no free throw, the ball being given to the offended side out of bounds. This one change should greatly speed up the pastime.

Another radical change has been the creation of goal zones on the court, the goal zone to be a continuation of the present free throw lines, but to run 17 feet from the end lines and across the court. Personal fouls committed in this zone by the defending team give the non-offending team two free throws. The personal fouls coming under this classification are holding, blocking, tripping, charging, pushing and unnecessary roughness.

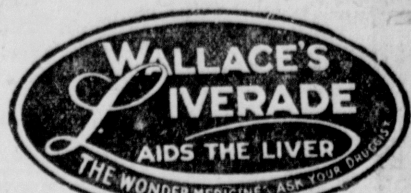

The new rules also more clearly define the violation of running, providing that, a player standing still with the ball shall not be considered running if he takes one step in any direction as long as the other foot is on the floor, but that he must get rid of the ball or begin dribbling as soon as the other foot leaves the floor. Allowance will also be made by officials for players who receive the ball while running.

Other minor changes include change regarding times out and the rule that the referee must request the co-operation of the umpire in "out-of-bounds" and "coaching" decisions. The new rules also provide that games between preparatory schools such as high schools, shall be divided into eight minute quarters instead of 20 minute halves. The rules say that games between boys under 16 years of age should be divided into six minute quarters.

In addition, the questions and answers always included after the regulation rules, are included as part of the rules by the action of the last committee.

These changes in rules should and are expected to be a distinct contribution to the game and will further popularize the sport it is believed.

EDUCATION WEEK TO BE OBSERVED IN GREENE COUNTY

In accordance with proclamations issued by President Harding and Governor Harry L. Davis, County Superintendent of Schools, H. C. Aultman has set aside the week of December 3 to 9, for the observance of "American Education Week" in the schools of Greene County.

The local schools, according to Mr. Aultman will follow the program recommended by the American Legion, during the week. The Legion, the National Education Association, and the United States Bureau of Education, have joined their forces on the promotion of the week. "The object of this week is to focus the attention of the people of all the states upon education and to build up state and national sentiment for the improvement of the schools and the furtherance of desirable educational aims," according to the proclamation issued by Governor Davis with reference to the week.

The proclamation in part follows: "Ohio's chief bulwark will always be in her system of schools and the efforts of all right thinking men and women will always be devoted to maintaining them in full vigor and unimpaired."

Progress has been made in this state in an educational way and it has been my privilege and pleasure as Governor to add in this direction. The summit has not been reached, however, and lagging back now might be fatal. The appeal still goes forth to every one to maintain an alert interest in education. By taking thought for this one week of our great educational investment we can add many units to its towering stature.

Present results should be conserved and increased until Ohio moves from twelfth place among the states to a still higher ranking. Therefore, I call upon all individuals and organizations in the state interested in the welfare and advancement of our people through public education to join in the observance of American Education Week for 1922, by meeting for discussion and study of the educational achievements and the educational needs of Ohio.

Especially do I ask for the support in this great work of the churches and Sunday Schools, the great fraternal orders, the civic clubs, the women's clubs, labor organizations, chambers of commerce, and the press of the state. The American Legion posts, the various school officers, and the Parent-Teacher Association throughout the state will be depended upon to exist every influence to make this week of outstanding significance.

I set for Ohio the dates nationally proposed and hereby designate the week of December 3-9 as American Education Week in this state."

HARRY L. DAVIS, Governor.

First, urging ministers of all denominations to preach upon the subject of education, Sunday, December 3, second that the newspapers may give all space possible to educational matters, articles, editorials and news material, third, urging the merchants to use window displays appropriate for the occasion, and to devote as much space as possible to matters of educational in their newspaper advertisements, fourth the showing of slides in moving picture houses urging the people to visit the schools and study educational questions, fifth, speakers at all public meetings held that week, to talk a few minutes on

COULD NOT TURN IN BED

Operation Avoided by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Dayton, Ohio.—"I had such pains that I had to be turned in bed every time I wished to move. They said an operation was necessary. My mother would keep saying: 'Why don't you take Pinkham's, Henrietta?' and I'd say, 'Oh, mamma, I won't help me, I've tried too much.' One day she said, 'Let me get you one bottle of each kind. You won't be out very much if it don't help you.' I don't know if you will believe me or not, but I only took two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and one of Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine when I began to get relief and I am regular ever since without a pain or a headache.

When I lie down I can get up without help and without pain. I can't begin to tell you how I feel and look. I have begun to gain in weight and look more like I ought to. I think every day of ways I have been helped. Any one who does not believe me can write to me and I will tell them what shape I was in. I am ready to do anything I can to help your medicine."—Mrs. HENRIETTA MILLER, 137 Sprague St., Dayton, Ohio.

- the necessity of education; and sixth, to co-operate with the education of officials and other patriotic civic and fraternal organizations.
- In furthering the plan, superintendent Aultman is urging that Parent-Teacher Associations be informed in every large school community in the county, in order to propagate the following fundamentals as referred from the national organization:
1. Pre-school age study circles.
 2. An appreciation of good books, good pictures, and good music.
 3. A real love for home.
 4. Health and Thrift habits.
 5. Wholesome recreation.
 6. Simplicity and suitability of dress.
 7. Physical education in every school.
 8. Closer relationship between parent and teachers.
 9. Recreation evenings—parents, teachers, pupils taking part.
 10. Stay at home evenings.
 11. Being a parent to some school that needs you.

Several Parent-Teacher Associations have been formed in county school communities, according to Mr. Aultman, who is urging the county-wide organization believing that every school board should be supported by one or more such organizations. It is expected that a general meeting will be held in January of representatives of the county districts, when a county organization will be affected.

"I am urging the observance of 'Education Week' in every district in a manner that will be of interest and benefit to the children of the county," said superintendent Aultman, Wednesday.

- "Last year 3,000 parents visited the schools during 'Education Week,' many helpful things having resulted from their interest," he continued.
- Mrs. Nan B. Miller, president of the Ohio Branch of the National Congress of Mothers, and the Parent-Teacher Associations, has referred the following program from the observance of the week:
1. For God and Country, Sunday, December 3.
 2. American Citizenship Day, Monday, December 4.
 3. Patriotism Day, Tuesday, December 5.
 4. School and Teacher Day, Wednesday, December 6.
 5. Literacy Day, Thursday, December 7.
 6. Equality of Opportunity, Friday, December 8.
 7. Physical Education Day, Saturday, December 9.

AN EVENTFUL MOTOR RIDE

Chapter 40

Grace and George Harter invited Walter and me for a motor ride and dinner. George drove and insisted I sit beside him, while Grace and Walter got into the tonneau. Walter was nothing loth, saying:

"I drive so much it will be a treat to laze."

"I would much preferred sitting with Walter, but of course could make no objection to the arrangement. George was in high spirits and drove recklessly. I expostulated with him, even calling to Walter and Grace to make him stop.

"We'll be arrested," I complained. "Never mind! We'll get off if we do. I'm not driving as fast as Walter was the other night when I passed him with that handsome model of his."

"I was going a pretty good gait," Walter laughed, "but I was hurrying to get home. Doreen was worried over a new servant, and I didn't want to make her wait."

"Jennie gone?" Grace asked. "She's back now, was away for a little." I said, happy that Walter had replied as he had.

Just then I heard a call and a traffic policeman halted us.

"Here you! Do you know how fast you are driving?" he asked, coming alongside with his motorcycle.

"My mother is ill, and we are hurrying to her," George replied, his face serious.

"Well, go a bit slower—thank you," the officer slipped a couple of George's expensive cigars in his pocket and left us.

"See! I told you we'd get off!" and stepping on the gas he again went flying over the road at a terrific speed.

We turned a sharp corner, a grinding of brakes—but not in time—and we crashed into the rear of a one horse vegetable wagon, throwing the vegetables all over the road. We were jarred, but fortunately no one was hurt; the man landing on the grass at the side of the road.

"You'll pay me for my load!" he said, shaking his fist as he picked himself up. "I'll have you arrested if you don't."

"Don't get excited. How much was it worth?" George was rather white and Walter and Grace looked frightened. I was trembling, but more with anger than fear. We might have killed the man, been killed ourselves."

The man said $15 would pay him, and without a word George handed it to him. After that he drove more sanely. As it was a lovely day we all enjoyed ourselves until we stopped at a road-house in Westchester for dinner.

We had scarcely seated ourselves when Helen Ralstrom and a young man appeared. We bowed, but as they were about to pass on George sprang up and said:

"Join us, Hays, you and Miss Ralstrom. The more the merrier, you know."

They needed no urging, and after presenting Mr. Hays to me they sat down. The rest knew him.

Helen sat between Walter and her own escort, but most of the time she talked to Walter, while Grace chatted with Hays. There was dancing after dinner and George asked me to dance immediately. He was our host so I could not well refuse, but I felt indignant when I saw Helen and Walter together. He should have asked Grace, and left Helen to Mr. Hays.

I loved to dance, but my evening was spoiled. I watched Walter and Helen, and it seemed to me they seemed too serious in their talk that they were too much engaged with each other.

And when after dancing just once with me and Grace, he gave the rest of the dances to her, my jealousy flamed. I said:

"You are monopolizing Miss Ralstrom, Walter. You forget she is with Mr. Hays." Grace stepped in, trying to stop me, but I was in the attention.

"Oh, Will is a miserable carper. Don't think I would dance with him when Walter is around!" Helen interposed with a laugh. "I'm not punishing myself."

I am sure George broke his laws again on our return. "Rough," say a word. I felt I didn't. "Caroline had acted as if oblivious," "Caroline save Helen for the Cathedral," fore we left.

WOULD NOT LOSE ALL IN 30,000 YEARS

Do patrons of Ohio Building Associations sometimes lose money? Yes, but the chance for loss is so small that it need not even be considered. Figures taken from public records show, that had the Ohio Associations been doing business since a date 30,000 years before the beginning of history, and if their patrons had been losing money at the present rate during all that time, they would still hold intact more than a Hundred Million Dollars of their patrons' savings.

This is not exaggeration, but the indisputable record of the "average" Ohio Association and we are prepared to show the data upon which that statement is based. We have striven to make, and keep, this association, not only as good as the "average," but one of the best of its kind, and believe that it is entitled to your fullest trust and confidence.

The local schools, according to Mr. Aultman will follow the program recommended by the American Legion, during the week. The Legion, the National Education Association, and the United States Bureau of Education, have joined their forces on the promotion of the week. "The object of this week is to focus the attention of the people of all the states upon education and to build up state and national sentiment for the improvement of the schools and the furtherance of desirable educational aims," according to the proclamation issued by Governor Davis with reference to the week.

The proclamation in part follows: "Ohio's chief bulwark will always be in her system of schools and the efforts of all right thinking men and women will always be devoted to maintaining them in full vigor and unimpaired."

Progress has been made in this state in an educational way and it has been my privilege and pleasure as Governor to aid in this direction. The summit has not been reached, however, and lagging back now might be fatal. The appeal still goes forth to every one to maintain an alert interest in education. By taking thought for this one week of our great educational investment we can add many rubs to its lowering stature.

Present results should be conserved and increased until Ohio moves from twelfth place among the states to a still higher ranking. Therefore, I call upon all individuals and organizations in the state interested in the welfare and advancement of our people through public education to join in the observance of American Education Week for 1922, by meeting for discussion and study of the educational achievements and the educational needs of Ohio.

Especially do I ask for the support in this great work of the churches and Sunday Schools, the great fraternal orders, the civic clubs, the women's clubs, labor organizations, chambers of commerce, and the press of the state. The American Legion posts, the various school officers, and the Parent-Teacher Association throughout the state will be depended upon to exist every influence to make this week of outstanding significance.

I set for Ohio the dates nationally proposed and hereby designate the week of December 3-9 as American Education Week in this state."

HARRY L. DAVIS, Governor.

First, urging ministers of all denominations to preach upon the subject of education, Sunday, December 3, second that the newspapers may give all space possible to educational matters, articles, editorials and news material, third, urging the merchants to use window displays appropriate for the occasion, and to devote as much space as possible to matters of educational in their newspaper advertisements, fourth, the showing of slides in moving picture houses urging the people to visit the schools and study educational questions, fifth, speakers at all public meetings held that week, to talk a few minutes on

Operation Avoided by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Dayton, Ohio.—"I had such pains that I had to be turned in bed every time I wished to move. They said an operation was necessary. My mother would keep saying, 'Why don't you take Pinkham's, Henrietta?' and I'd say, 'Oh, mamma, it won't help me, I've tried too much.' One day she said, 'Let me get you one bottle of each kind. You won't be out very much if it don't help you.' I don't know if you will believe me or not, but I only took two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and one of Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine when I began to get relief and I am regular ever since without a pain or a headache.

When I lie down I can get up without help and without pain. I can't begin to tell you how I feel and look. I have begun to gain in weight and look more like I ought to. I think every day of ways I have been helped. Any one who does not believe me can write to me and I will tell them what shape I was in. I am ready to do anything I can to help your medicine. —Mrs. HENRIETTA MILLER, 137 Sprague St., Dayton, Ohio.

If you have any doubt write to Mrs. Miller and get her story direct.

the necessity of education; and sixth, to co-operate with the education of officials and other patriotic civic and fraternal organizations.

In furthering the plan, superintendent Aultman is urging that Parent-Teacher Associations be informed in every large school community in the county, in order to propagate the following fundamentals, as referred to by the nation organization:

1. Pre-school age study circles.
2. An appreciation of good books, good pictures, and good music.
3. A real love for home.
4. Health and Thrift habits.
5. Wholesome recreation.
6. Simplicity and suitability of dress.
7. Physical education in every school.
8. Closer relationship between parent and teachers.
9. Recreation evenings—parents, teachers, pupils taking part.
10. Stay at home evenings.
11. Being a parent to some school that needs you.

Several Parent-Teacher Associations have been formed in county school communities, according to Mr. Aultman, who is urging the county-wide organization believing that every school board should be supported by one or more such organizations. It is expected that a general meeting will be held in January of representatives of the county districts, when a county organization will be affected.

"I am urging the observance of 'Education Week,' in every district in a manner that will be of interest and benefit to the children of the county," said superintendent Aultman, Wednesday.

"Last year 3,000 parents visited the schools during 'Education Week,' many helpful things having resulted from their interest," he continued.

Mrs. Nan B. Miller, president of the Ohio Branch of the National Congress of Mothers, and the Parent-Teacher Associations, has referred the following program from the observance of the week:

SUPPER FROM A CAN OF CORN

Corn is a versatile vegetable. A can of corn will make many delicious luncheon or supper dishes. Try the following supper menus:

Corn Mash on Toast Preserves
Wholewheat Gems Preserves
Gingerbread

Corn Mash: Drain liquor from one can of corn, then put the corn through your food chopper. Put into a saucepan, over a hot fire, three green peppers with water to cover; boil the peppers (seeds and stems removed) till soft, then drain them from the water and put them through the food chopper, also. Put one small, peeled onion through the chopper, then cook the chopped onion in a little butter till soft. Now put all three vegetables—the corn, the green peppers and the onion—into a medium-sized saucepan together; season them with one teaspoon of salt, a pinch of cayenne, add one-half cup of cream, and heat thoroughly, then add one well-beaten egg and let cook all

3. Patriotism Day, Tuesday, December 5.
4. School and Teacher Day, Wednesday, December 6.
5. Illiteracy Day, Thursday December 7.
6. Equality of Opportunity, Friday, December 8.
7. Physical Education Day, Saturday, December 9.

Corn Fritters Quick Biscuits
Cocoa Preserves

Corn Fritters: Sift together one cup of bread flour, one and one-half teaspoon of salt, one-fourth teaspoon of paprika and one heaping teaspoon of baking powder. Stir this mixture into one can of corn (which has been drained out into a mixing bowl). Mix to a stiff batter. A little more flour may have to be added if the canned corn is too liquid. Stir in two well-beaten eggs and fry, by tablespoonfuls, in a frying pan till a light brown. Bacon fat is especially good to use in frying them.

Creamed Corn au Gratin Preserves
Cocoa Spice Cakes

Creamed Corn au Gratin: Rub one cup of bread flour into one fourth cup of butter which you have melted, then add one and one-half cups of sweet milk, gradually, and stir till smooth. Let boil up once or twice and season with one teaspoon of salt and a dash of black pepper. Now add to this sauce one pint of canned corn. Let boil up for a few minutes, then turn all into a medium-sized baking dish. Cover with three-fourth cup of the cracker crumbs mixed with one-third cup of melted butter. Bake fifteen minutes in a hot oven, and serve very hot.

AN EVENTFUL MOTOR RIDE

Chapter 40

Grace and George Harter invited Walter and me for a motor ride and dinner. George drove and insisted I sit beside him, while Grace and Walter got into the tonneau. Walter was nothing loth, saying:

"I drive so much it will be a treat to laze."

I would much preferred sitting with Walter, but of course could make no objection to the arrangement. George was in high spirits and drove recklessly. I expostulated with him, even calling to Walter and Grace to make him stop.

"We'll be arrested," I complained. "Never mind! We'll get off if we do. I'm not driving as fast as Walter was the other night when I passed him with that handsome model of a car."

"I was going a pretty good gait," Walter laughed. "but I was hurrying to get home. Doreen was worried over a new servant, and I didn't want to make her wait."

"Jennie gone?" Grace asked. "She's back now, was away for a little. I said, happy that Walter had replied as he had."

Just then I heard a call and a traffic policeman hailed us. "Here you! Do you know how fast you are driving?" he asked, coming alongside with his motorcycle.

"My mother is ill, and we are hurrying to her," George replied, his face serious.

"Well, go a bit slower—thank you," the officer slipped a couple of George's expensive cigars in his pocket and left us.

"See! I told you we'd get off!" and stepping on the gas he again went flying over the road at a terrific speed.

We turned a sharp corner, a grinding of brakes—but not in time—and we crashed into the rear of a one horse vegetable wagon, throwing the vegetables all over the road. We were jarred, but fortunately no one was hurt; the man landing on the grass at the side of the road.

"You'll pay me for my load!" he said, shaking his fist as he picked himself up. "I'll have you arrested if you don't."

"Don't get excited. How much was it worth?" George was rather white and Walter and Grace looked frightened. I was trembling, but more with anger than fear. We might have killed the man, been killed ourselves."

The man said $15 would pay him, and without a word George handed it to him. After that he drove more sanely. As it was a lovely day we all enjoyed ourselves until we stopped at a road-house in Westchester for dinner.

We had scarcely seated ourselves when Helen Ralstrom and a young man appeared. We bowed, but as they were about to pass on George sprang up and said:

"Join us, Hays, you and Miss Ralstrom. The more the merrier, you know."

They needed no urging, and after presenting Mr. Hays to me they sat down. The rest knew him.

Helen sat between Walter and her own escort, but most of the time she talked to Walter, while Grace chatted with Hays. There was dancing after dinner and George asked me to dance immediately. He was out to dance so I could not well refuse, but I felt indignant when I saw Helen and Walter together. He should have asked Grace, and left Helen to Mr. Hays.

I loved to dance, but my evening was spoiled. I watched Walter and Helen, and it seemed to me they seemed too serious in their talk that they were too much engaged with each other.

And when after dancing just once with me and Grace, he gave the rest of the dances to her, my jealousy flamed. I said:

"You are monopolizing Miss Ralstrom, Walter. You forget she is with Mr. Hays." Grace stepped a Bar-toc, trying to stop me, but I which attention.

"Oh, Will is a miserable 'carpet' Don't think I would dance with her when Walter is around!" Helen laughed in a laugh. "I'm not punishing myself."

I am sure George broke. "Rough-laws again on our return for Ours," say a word. I felt I didn't Lincoln, ter had acted as if oblivion; "Car-one save Helen for the Cathedral," fore we left.

WOULD NOT LOSE ALL IN 30,000 YEARS

Do patrons of Ohio Building Associations sometimes lose money? Yes, but the chance for loss is so small that it need not even be considered. Figures taken from public records show, that had the Ohio Associations been doing business since a date 30,000 years before the beginning of history, and if their patrons had been losing money at the present rate during all that time, they would still hold intact more than a Hundred Million Dollars of their patrons' savings.

This is not exaggeration, but the indisputable record of the "average" Ohio Association and we are prepared to show the data upon which that statement is based. We have striven to make, and keep, this association, not only as good as the "average," but one of the best of its kind, and believe that it is entitled to your fullest trust and confidence.

DECISION UPHeld BY APPELLATE COURT

The fine of $50 and costs assessed against William Szekle on a charge of hunting without a license some time ago, was sustained by the Court of Appeals in a decision received Wednesday and will have to be paid.

Szekle, following his conviction and fine, appealed the case to the Court of Common Pleas. The decision of the Magistrate's Court was upheld in Common Pleas Court, and the defendant then appealed the case to the Appellate Court on error.

In the decision of the Court of Appeals it was held that the affidavit states an offense under Section 1434 of the General Code, and that the evidence was sufficient to sustain the charge. The state was represented in the action by Prosecuting Attorney J. Kenneth Williams and W. S. Rhonchamel of Dayton and Miller and Xenia, were attorneys for Szekle.

I have often marveled at the continuous flow of waters from some spring or mountain stream. Where does all the water come from? Will it never run dry? I ask myself these things.

But what would happen if there was no flow--no outlet for these waters?

There would be dangerous floods, and property would be made useless over wide areas. And so these waters find an outlet--and go their way happily--bettering the world of man and nature.

In the old days they used to bleed people. That was a common practice by the doctors then. When I was a boy I used to think that this was done to get some of the "bad blood" out of folks. And maybe that is what it did. But, I once asked a doctor why it was done, and he told me it was to lower the blood pressure. That sounded reasonable. Too much blood in a system of veins and arteries too weak to hold it.

Outlets are the blessings of healthy life.

Not long ago, I was walking at a sea resort and I noted a great crowd gathered around a group of men who appeared to be in hot argument. I asked my friend what this was all about and he replied that there was a free debating society which met there regularly. He said that anyone could step up there and get into an argument or debate and go to it as thick and as fast as he chose.

A good idea, I thought.

England and America live in a freer mood than any other nations on earth. This is because they have liberal ideas when it comes to the expressions of their citizens. These democracies believe that in free discussion there is opportunity for the giving off of mental steam, so that the individual is better off afterwards for thinking and acting.

Forbid free expression and the nation starves or commits suicide.

The reason for so many nervous wrecks in our daily life may be that so many things are forbidden as "not proper" or against "convention," whereas, on the contrary, freedom of thought and honesty of expression clear the mind, fortify the body and enlarge the soul.

The returns of roll call chairman from over the county, in the Sixth Annual Red Cross membership campaign, Wednesday afternoon, as shown by the amounts placed in local banks, has reached $3,621.02, according to Red Cross officials.

Three towns in the county which made extensive drives in the campaign, have not reported, according to officials, who say the amount to be turned in is at least $240. This amount has been collected but not forwarded to Miss Lois Babb, treasurer for the campaign.

It is expected that at the end of the week the goal of $4000 set by Red Cross officials will be reached, and officials are urging all chairman and solicitors to complete their work and turn in their funds at an early date as possible so that the final report may be completed.

Red Cross officials stated Thursday that they were very much pleased with the Roll Call drive, which proved successful in every community in the county.

FRUIT ABUNDANT IN RIO GRANDE VALLEY TEXAS SAYS XENIAN

Lemons as big as grape fruit, oranges proportionate in size and sweet as sugar and grape fruit that needs no sugar to destroy the bitter taste, are being grown in the Rio Grande Valley in south-western Texas, according to F. W. Walker, of this city, who has just returned from a ten-days business trip to the section.

While there Mr. Walker was the guest of A. J. McCall, of the United Fruit Company of Kansas City, at McAllen, Texas, in the heart of the valley. As proof of his story of the immense and luscious fruit being grown in the section, he brought back specimens including a lemon weighing two-pounds, three and one-half ounces.

The Rio Grande Valley has only been open twelve years, and represents the reclamation of arid lands previous to that time. It is irrigated with a network of irrigation ditches, the water coming from the Rio Grande River, five miles away, pumped from several huge pumping stations.

The farmers employ Mexican labor cheaply, and the soil is so fertile that vegetable life springs up quickly and abundantly, while the climate is so near the same the year around, that twelve-months farming and fruit growing is the rule. The Valley is 80-miles long and 16-miles wide and is now the mecca of fruit growers. The fruit being grown in the section is now being shipped to the larger centers, where it has a ready market.

PURITY DEMANDED BY GOD SAYS SPEAKER WEDNESDAY NIGHT

"We demand purity in earthly things and God demands purity in us. If we die with sin in our hearts we will stand before the Judgment Bar of God with sin in our hearts and there is no place after death to get rid of sin, it was taken place on this side of the grave."

Taking her text from Matt. 5:8, "Blessed are the pure in heart for they shall see God." Mrs. Flora Ruth Chatfield addressed a large audience at the Church of the Nazarene Wednesday night.

"A pure heart needs no adornment, such as putting on of apparel, uniforms, buttons, but to have a pure heart is to have all self removed, no longer our will but the will of God to be the desire of our hearts. These are the characteristics of a pure heart. A pure heart is sensitive to the approval of men, but loves to please God. A pure heart is sensitive to base suggestions it abhors insincerity, but loves the truth as it is found in the word of God. A pure heart will bear Godly correction, and profits by it. A pure heart prepares to see God."

At the close of the message of the evangelist, the altar call was given and one responded and prayed through in the "good old fashioned way."

The special song of the evening was "If You Have the Promised Blessing You Will Shine," by the Rev. Frank Watkins. Attendance is growing at each service, during the evangelistic campaign.

PROHIBITION GREATEST THING TO BE THANKFUL FOR SAYS COMMANDER OF THE SALVATION ARMY

Note: America has more reason to be thankful for prohibition than for any other one thing, Miss Evangeline Booth, commander of the Salvation Army in the United States, asserted today in response to a request from International News Service that she pen a Thanksgiving Day message. Her message is as follows:

By Evangeline Booth
Chicago, Nov. 30.—Were I called upon to name one thing for which this year we, as a nation, have greatest cause for Thanksgiving I should unhesitatingly name prohibition.

Thousands of turkeys, tons of cranberry sauce, and oceans of other seasonal goodies will be spread before the happy wives and children of America purchased by money which in former years went to fatten the saloon keeper, the brewer and the distiller. No more will drunkenness and carousal in the mass mar the holy influence of the nation's finest holiday.

Of all nations America was first to set aside a day for the purpose of expressing gratitude to God. There is a fine sentiment in the ideal of Thanksgiving day in that it typifies an unselfish gratitude. There is no individual in all the vast domains of beautiful America so poor in spirit that he or she cannot find something for which to be grateful.

But the end is not yet. When the world is through with its killing of men, when the sun of the war god has forever set, when prohibition has flooded over our frontiers to cover the earth with its blessed sanctity, wives no longer weep for drunken husbands, nor children hide from bearded fathers when peace has spread benevolent wings over all the nations and the brotherhood of man has really come to pass, then will America lead the world to a greater Thanksgiving day.

STATE PROSPEROUS

Columbus, Nov. 30.—With a cash balance of $15,000,000, the state treasury is in the "most prosperous state in all its history," a statement issued by Governor Davis asserts. This general revenue balance, it was declared, has risen since Sept. 4, 1920, "when, with an overcast of $109,538, it had dropped to its historically low point." The statement said a draft for $1,000,000 will be made on this balance soon to help pay the soldiers' bonus. The legislature in special session had appropriated $7,500,000 for bonuses.

NO DEVIATION IN HOLIDAY PLANS FOR XENIA THURSDAY

Thanksgiving will be celebrated in Xenia "per usual." Marked with the usual round of "good eats" family affairs, informal evening social affairs and movie houses, the day will witness an unusual festive demonstration.

"Thirty eight cents a pound" and upward did not hold any terrors for Xenia citizens who hold that there is something missing on Thanksgiving day if turkey is not on the bill of fare. Surrounded with all the "trimmings" the old bird held a prominent place on many a local table.

The spirit of Thanksgiving was manifested Thursday morning with the mass meeting held at the First United Presbyterian Church, when all Xenia city churches united to hear the sermon of the Rev. G. A. Scott, of the First M. E. Church.

The Bijou and Orpheum theaters held the center of interest of the crowds in the afternoon. At the former theater Wallace Reid was the holiday attraction in "Across the Continent," with "Stolen Glory," a two-reel Campbell comedy, as an added feature. The cast of "Across the Continent," includes Theodore Roberts, Mary McLaren and other stars.

"No Defense" a Vitaphone five reel drama of the Canadian Northwest, with William Duncan, Edith Johnson, Jack Richardson and a good cast, is featured Thursday matinee and night, at the Orpheum Theater. Two reels of "The Timber Queen" with Ruth Roland, the last episode of a popular serial was also shown.

With the exception of one football game, sports were absent in Xenia, Thanksgiving. Wilberforce University met West Virginia Institute Thursday afternoon, this numbering the only gridiron contest in the vicinity.

Thursday evening the members of the Phi Delta Kappa Fraternity will be hosts at a dancing party at the fraternity rooms, in the Kingsbury building, this social function to be the center of interest among the younger set.

Xenia Rotarians will be hosts at a luncheon at the Elk's Club, Thursday evening at six o'clock, when International Rotary officers with their wives will be among the guests.

The promise of a rise in temperature Thursday caused a rise in spirits and added renewed fervor for social activities.

FRUIT ABUNDANT IN RIO GRANDE VALLEY TEXAS SAYS XENIAN

Lemons as big as grape fruit, oranges proportionate in size and sweet as sugar and grape fruit that needs no sugar to destroy the bitter taste, are being grown in the Rio Grande Valley in south-western Texas, according to F. W. Walker, of this city, who has just returned from a ten-days business trip to the section.

While there Mr. Walker was the guest of A. J. McCall, of the United Farms Company of Kansas City, at McAllen, Texas, in the heart of the valley. As proof of his story of the immense and delicious fruit being grown in the section, he brought back specimens including a lemon weighing two pounds, three and one-half ounces.

The Rio Grande Valley has only been open twelve years, and represents the reclamation of arid lands previous to that time. It is irrigated with a net-work of irrigation ditches, the water coming from the Rio Grande River, five miles away, pumped from several huge pumping stations.

The farmers employ Mexican labor cheaply, and the soil is so fertile that vegetable life springs up quickly and abundantly, while the climate is so near the same the year around, that twelve-months farming and fruit growing is the rule. The Valley is 80 miles long and 16 miles wide and is now the mecca of fruit growers. The fruit being grown in the section is now being shipped to the larger centers, where it has a ready market.

PURITY DEMANDED BY GOD SAYS SPEAKER WEDNESDAY NIGHT

"We demand purity in earthly things and God demands purity in us. If we die with sin in our hearts we will stand before the Judgment Bar of God with sin in our hearts and there is no place after death to get rid of sin, it was take place on this side of the grave."

Taking her text from Matt. 5:3, "Blessed are the pure in heart, for they shall see God." Mrs. Flora Ruth Chaffield addressed a large audience at the Church of the Nazarene Wednesday night.

"A pure heart needs no adornment, such as putting on of apparel, uniforms, buttons, but to have a pure heart is to have all self removed, no longer our will but the will of God to be the desire of our hearts. These are the characteristics of a pure heart. A pure heart seeks not the approval of men, but loves to please God. A pure heart is sensitive to base suggestions it abhors insincerity, but loves the truth as it is found in the word of God. A pure heart will bear Godly correction, and profits by it. A pure heart prepares to see God.

At the close of the message of the evangelist, the altar call was given and one responded and prayed through in the "good old fashioned way."

The special song of the evening was "If You Have the Promised Blessing You Will Shine," by the Rev. Frank Watkin. Attendance is growing at each service, during the evangelistic campaign.

PROHIBITION GREATEST THING TO BE THANKFUL FOR SAYS COMMANDER OF THE SALVATION ARMY

Note: America has more reason to be thankful for prohibition than for any other one thing. Miss Evangelina Loach, commander of the Salvation Army in the United States, asserted today in response to a request from International News Service that she pen a Thanksgiving Day message. Her message is as follows:

By Evangelina Loach
Chicago, Nov. 30.—Were I called upon to name one thing for which this year we, as a nation, have greatest cause for Thanksgiving I should unhesitatingly name prohibition.

Thousands of turkeys, tons of cranberry sauce, and oceans of other seasonable goodies will be spread before the happy wives and children of America purchased by money which in former years went to fatten the saloon keeper, the brewer and the distiller. No more will drunkenness and carousal in the mass mar the holy influence of the nation's finest holiday.

Of all nations America was first to set aside a day for the purpose of expressing gratitude to God. There is a fine sentiment in the ideal of Thanksgiving day in that it typifies an unselfish gratitude. There is no individual in all the vast domains of beautiful America so poor in spirit that he or she cannot find something for which to be grateful.

But the end is not yet. When the world is through with its killing of men, when the sun of the war god has forever set, when prohibition has flooded over our frontiers to cover the earth with its blessed sanctity, wives no longer weep for drunken husbands, nor children hide from forsaken fathers when peace has spread benevolent wings over all the nations and the brotherhood of man has really come to pass, then will America lead the world to a greater Thanksgiving day.

STATE PROSPEROUS

Columbus, Nov. 30.—With a cash balance of $15,000,000, the state treasury is in the "most prosperous state in all its history," a statement issued by Governor Davis asserts. This general revenue balance, it was declared, has risen since Sept. 4, 1920, "when, with an overdraft of $109,538, it had dropped to its historically low point." The statement said a draft for $1,000,000 will be made on this balance, soon to help pay the soldiers' bonus. The legislature in special session had appropriated $7,500,000 for bonuses.

NEW BOOKS

ON LIBRARY LIST
DRAW INTEREST
AS WINTER
NEARS

With the first nip of the icy fingers of Jack Frost, the following fall of snow, and cold, windy nights, almost anyone will agree that the most appealing mind picture is that of a cozy warm fireside with a good book as a welcome companion.

The patrons of the Greene County Library will find food for thought and enjoyment in the selection of new books that have just been placed on the shelves of the library, and which include an assortment of novels that have at present reached the height of their popularity and are much in demand. When a book has reached the pitch of discussion, whether favorably or adverse, the chances are that a large majority of the reading public will literally scramble to read it.

"Main Street," that publication that resulted in a storm of discussion, pro and con, that has not as yet died down, has welded the interest of that novel into another equally intriguing, "Babbitt." The charm of Sinclair Lewis, that was demonstrated in "Main Street," is again evidenced in his new book, according to followers of fiction.

Another subject that a always met with a division in the matter of opinion, is that of the second coming of Christ, a subject that has been taken up by men of the pulpit, press and platform for material for education. "They Call Me Carpenter" by Upton Sinclair, one of the books among the list of the thecal library, is upon this theme, which is handled in a manner that will win the interest of any reader.

The tired business man or hurried housewife, who, through lack of time or forgetfulness never completes a serial story in a magazine is offered an opportunity of reading a number of interesting and new books, that have been recently issued after being published in popular magazines. Among these, which are included in the new library list are: "Broken Barriers" by Meredith Nicholson, which was widely read while running in the Cosmopolitan; "They Call Me Carpenter" by Upton Sinclair, which was published in Hearst's and "Charles Rex," which appeared in the People's Home Companion.

The entire list of new books in the local library, is as follows: "Rough-hewn," Fisher; "One of Ours," Cather; "Fair Harbor," Lincoln; "Broken Barriers," Nicholson; "Charles Rex," Parker; "Cathedral," Walpole; "Gospel of Luke," Erdman; "They Call Me Carpenter," Sinclair; "Minister of Grace," Willmar; "Dust Flower," King; "More Honorable Man," Roche; "Two Shall be Born," Oemler; "I Walked in Arden," Crawford; "Tale of Triana," Locke; "Ruse of Silk," Hamilton; "Laughter Limited," Putnam; "He Who Gets Slapped," Andreyer; "Books and Characters," Strackey; "Soliloquies in England," Santayana; "Rita Coventry," Street; "Batouala," Maran; "Babbitt," Lewis; "Pomarine Street," Wells; "One Thing is Certain," Kerr; "This Freedom," and "Once Aboard the Lagger," Hutchison; "Mind in the Making," Robinson; "Forsythe Saga," Galsworthy; "Day of the Beast," Galsworthy; "Viola," McCutcheon; "Charles Rex," Dell; "Conquest of Fear," King; "Captain Blood," Sabatini; "In the Days of Poor Richard," Bacheller; "Outline of Science," Thomson; "Young Boswell," Tinker; "Breaking Point," Rinehart.

CONSERVATIVE UNCLE SAM.

"Because the United States, of all countries, offers the best promise of a more human life to the masses, it is strong enough to answer the Bolshevik challenge," says Col. Raymond Robins of Chicago, expert sociologist. He adds:

"The present social order of our country is able to meet this challenge because of a certain confidence and trust in our political, economic and religious institutions. But it cannot be met by any nation in the Old World."

These are facts worth calling freshly to mind every time some excitable patriot raises a new cry of alarm regarding some radical menace or other.

Anyone who calmly studies the political history and social tendencies in the various countries of the world usually concludes that the United States is the steadiest country in the world. Even England, with "its freedom broadening slowly down from precedent to precedent," is more radical than America—that is, its political and economic evolution moves faster. And this American steadiness is not of one class only; if it were it would be dangerous. It permeates all the classes except a fringe of radical extremists so small as to be of little influence.

America is liberal; but our liberalism is what almost any European country today would call conservatism.

The reason for this national conservatism is plain enough, as Col. Robins suggests. Americans know when they are well off, and don't lightly take any chances of changing for the worse, in sudden hope of a millennium. That is why the Reds, of any type, never have a chance here.

HARDING TO URGE REGARD FOR LAW IN "DRY" ENFORCEMENT.

President Harding, and his Cabinet, in a ninety-minute discussion Monday of the menace to the whole structure of obedience to law and respect for Government involved in widespread violation of the Prohibition Act, decided it was high time, as a White House spokesman expressed it, "to try to give some revelation of the concern of the Federal Government in the undermining of the moral sense of the American people through the constant, flagrant and too regularly tolerated violations of the law."

The President is considering an appeal of some sort to "the conscience-driven, Government-loving, religious sense of the American people," according to the White House.

The immediate problem of the President and his Cabinet was described as being one of strengthening the Federal Government in its determination to enforce the prohibition laws under the Eighteenth Amendment. The Administration view is that vastly more important than the running down of bootleggers, seizure of illicit stills and curbing of rum runners is the problem of terminating the connivance with those law-breakers by some of the highest types of American citizens.

The President is not at all dissatisfied with the enforcement work of Roy A. Haynes, Federal Prohibition Commissioner, who is regarded at the White House as having little short of a religious zeal. The Administration is not persuaded, however, that many of Mr. Haynes' State and local agents share the religious zeal for enforcement. It is the purpose of the Government to inject a little more activity in those quarters.

IRELAND FREE STATE RISKS ALL AS CHILDERS IS PUT TO DEATH.

Ireland's reaction to the execution of Erskine Childers, Eamon de Valera's first lieutenant, who was executed by the Free State authorities last Friday, is pregnant with possibilities for good or evil for the struggling Irish Free State.

Childers paid the death penalty for his opposition to the constituted Free State after he was convicted by court-martial for illegal possession of firearms. Friends made desperate efforts to save him from the firing squad. His fate hung in the balance for several days, while counsel appealed for a writ of habeas corpus before the master of the rolls. The civil court's ruling that it had no jurisdiction was followed quickly by his execution.

No details of Childers' death are available, but it is believed he faced the firing squad as four other Irish Republicans sentenced recently.

The British Government no less than the Irish Provisional Government now waits with great anxiety to learn whether the Irish populace has the moral courage to support the drastic program which has become necessary if Ireland's pledge under the Free State treaty is to be maintained.

The days immediately ahead are the most critical which the Free State has faced since the signing of the treaty last December. If the populace wants the treaty the Free State, which it guarantees, there must be no more of the moral cowardice which in the weeks just passed has caused a large section of the Irish populace to maintain an attitude of neutrality as between the Provisional Government and Eamon de Valera's forces, which are bent upon destroying all that Arthur Griffith and Michael Collins worked and died for.

FOR INEXPERIENCED MOTHERS

When I started a series of Beauty Chats for expectant mothers I think I said that there was no reason why the young mother should not be as beautiful while the baby is coming as before it was ever dreamed of. My first suggestion was that she wear smocks to conceal the gradual change in the figure, at another time I tried to console her for her loss of slimness by pointing out the improvement in the complexion that almost always comes at this period.

One young mother told me that she felt so badly during all these months that she didn't care what she looked like. Such a condition is unfortunate but really is the exception. The whole maternal process is perfectly normal and with any sort of intelligent care, results in better health and better looks, as any doctor will tell you.

I am inclined to think that a great deal of bad feelings at this time are due to the woman's own imagination. For some curious reason the imagination is over active during these months, besides there is a natural anxiety for the well-being of the future child, and the mother feels that anything wrong with herself will react to its harm.

This usually isn't true, as your doctor will tell you. Also the whole physical and nervous organism is more sensitive at this time so a small ill, that would otherwise pass unnoticed, exaggerates itself. Then, too there are so many new and puzzling sensations.

So, after all, the best advice I can give is don't worry about anything. Go to your physician once a month for a general physical examination and if he says everything is all right don't worry.

Nausea is unpleasant but does not last and generally is avoided by having hot coffee in bed first thing in the morning.

THE DAY OF REVOLT.

Revolt is in the air; young authors everywhere are breaking all the rules, defying all the schools; traditions must give way, and all things old and gray must fall—triumphant Youth will show us what's the truth. The bard we most admire played on discordant lyre; the man we thought a seer but chronicled small beer; the wreaths old writers won were worth ten cents a ton. The era of revolt! The brisk and haughty colt appears to proudly trot around the pasture lot, and age-worn Dobbin flees, or tries to climb some trees. The young colt's neck is arched, his tail is deftly starched, the old plugs hear him neigh to get the right of way. But this is nothing new; since first young roosters crew and old ones slunk away to hide among the hay, revolt has fired Youth's heart and said to Age, "depart!" And Youth decrees today, old things must pass away; and still some hopeless sot reads poor old Walter Scott; some mumbling graybeard turns to books of Bobbie Burns; and now and then one meets a boob who's fond of Keats. It's said that this is so; all time worn things should go.

CONSERVATIVE UNCLE SAM.

"Because the United States, of all countries, offers the best promise of a more human life to the masses, it is strong enough to answer the Bolshevik challenge," says Col. Raymond Robins of Chicago, expert sociologist. He adds:

"The present social order of our country is able to meet this challenge because of a certain confidence and trust in our political, economic and religious institutions. But it cannot be met by any nation in the Old World."

These are facts worth calling freshly to mind every time some excitable patriot raises a new cry of alarm regarding some radical menace or other.

Anyone who calmly studies the political history and social tendencies in the various countries of the world usually concludes that the United States is the steadiest country in the world. Even England, with "its freedom broadening slowly down from precedent to precedent," is more radical than America—that is, its political and economic evolution moves faster. And this American steadiness is not of one class only; if it were it would be dangerous. It permeates all the classes except a fringe of radical extremists so small as to be of little influence.

America is liberal; but our liberalism is what almost any European country today would call conservatism.

The reason for this national conservatism is plain enough, as Col. Robins suggests. Americans know when they are well off, and don't lightly take any chances of changing for the worse, in sudden hope of a millennium. That is why the Reds, of any type, never have a chance here.

HARDING TO URGE REGARD FOR LAW IN "DRY" ENFORCEMENT.

President Harding, and his Cabinet, in a ninety-minute discussion Monday of the menace to the whole structure of obedience to law and respect for Government involved in widespread violation of the Prohibition Act, decided it was high time, as a White House spokesman expressed it, "to try to give some revelation of the concern of the Federal Government in the undermining of the moral sense of the American people through the constant, flagrant and too regularly tolerated violations of the law."

The President is considering an appeal of some sort to "the conscience-driven, Government-loving, religious sense of the American people," according to the White House.

The immediate problem of the President and his Cabinet was described as being one of strengthening the Federal Government in its determination to enforce the prohibition laws under the Eighteenth Amendment. The Administration view is that vastly more important than the running down of bootleggers, seizure of illicit stills and curbing of rum runners is the problem of terminating the connivance with those law-breakers by some of the highest types of American citizens.

The President is not at all dissatisfied with the enforcement work of Roy A. Haynes, Federal Prohibition Commissioner, who is regarded at the White House as having little short of a religious zeal. The Administration is not persuaded, however, that many of Mr. Haynes' State and local agents share the religious zeal for enforcement. It is the purpose of the Government to inject a little more activity in those quarters.

IRELAND FREE STATE RISKS ALL AS CHILDERS IS PUT TO DEATH.

Ireland's reaction to the execution of Erskine Childers, Eamon de Valera's first lieutenant, who was executed by the Free State authorities last Friday, is pregnant with possibilities for good or evil for the struggling Irish Free State.

Childers paid the death penalty for his opposition to the constituted Free State after he was convicted by courtmartial for illegal possession of firearms. Friends made desperate efforts to save him from the firing squad. His fate hung in the balance for several days, while counsel appealed for a writ of habeas corpus before the master of the rolls. The civil court's ruling that it had no jurisdiction was followed quickly by his execution.

No details of Childers' death are available, but it is believed he faced the firing squad as four other Irish Republicans sentenced recently.

The British Government no less than the Irish Provisional Government now waits with great anxiety to learn whether the Irish populace has the moral courage to support the drastic program which has become necessary if Ireland's pledge under the Free State treaty is to be maintained.

The days immediately ahead are the most critical which the Free State has faced since the signing of the treaty last December. If the populace wants the treaty the Free State, which it guarantees, there must be no more of the moral cowardice which in the weeks just passed has caused a large section of the Irish populace to maintain an attitude of neutrality as between the Provisional Government and Eamon de Valera's forces, which are bent upon destroying all that Arthur Griffith and Michael Collins worked and died for.

FOR INEXPERIENCED MOTHERS

When I started a series of Beauty Chats for expectant mothers I think I said that there was no reason why the young mother should not be as beautiful while the baby is coming as before it was ever dreamed of. My first suggestion was that she wear smocks to conceal the gradual change in the figure, at another time I tried to console her for her loss of slenderness by pointing out the improvement in the complexion that almost always comes at this period.

One young mother told me that she felt so badly during all these months that she didn't care what she looked like. Such a condition is unfortunate but really is the exception. The whole maternal process is perfectly normal and with any sort of intelligent care, results in better health and better looks, as any doctor will tell you.

I am inclined to think that a great deal of bad feelings at this time are due to the woman's own imagination. For some curious reason the imagination is over active during these months, besides there is a natural anxiety for the well-being of the future child, and the mother feels that anything wrong with herself will react to its harm.

OLD ALUMNI GAMES ARE MISSED BY FANS ONE GAME CARDED

Football fans this season are missing more than ever the usual Thanksgiving Day football game which in former years played such an important part in the seasonal gridiron activities.

The grid fan Thursday found that he could not appease his usual Turkey day football appetite any place in the city, and that the nearest game available was the Wilberforce-West Virginia Institute Clash at Wilberforce Thursday afternoon.

This is a condition that has not existed for years and was occasioned by the abandonment of the usual high school and alumni clash several years ago and the more recent action of the American Legion, eleven and the Imperial A. C. team to play no games on Thanksgiving Day.

In former years the annual clash between the Central High eleven and a team composed of alumni of the school who had not been out of school more than two years, was the much-looked forward to grid classic of the year, and a fitting Turkey Day battle that drew immense crowds.

Because of the number of former stars usually seen in the line-up of the graduate eleven, the interest in the game was always increased, the game usually having a great following among the alumni. The high school eleven on the other hand, was always strongly supported by the student body. Much preparation was made for the annual classic, the alumni team preparing for weeks in advance, practicing regularly and being organized with a captain and manager. The games were all warmly contested and heated encounters, spectators participating in the tense feeling along with the players.

The alumni games were abandoned several years ago, apparently through lack of a leader in the alumni to stir up interest and organize a team. At that time interest in independent football was on the rise, and the game booked by the independent place usually filled the void made by the dropping of the annual alumni contest. This year, for the first time, two teams that have been playing independent football here, have not booked a game, and the city will be without a football contest as a settler for turkey dinners.

Many fans are anticipating flocking to the game at Wilberforce in lieu of a game here, and fans who have seen the colored athletes perform on the gridiron this year, claim these fans are not going to be disappointed in Coach Dean Mohr's outfit, if they are anxious to see real football.

HOLIDAY FOOTBALL INTEREST CENTERS AT WILBERFORCE U.

The colored collegiate championship of the United States will hang in the balance when Wilberforce University and the team from the West Virginia Collegiate Institute tangle at Wilberforce Thursday afternoon, in the only grid classic staged for the country.

Coach Dean Mohr of the Greene County eleven has been pointing Captain Tripp and his aids all season for this final Turkey Day set-to with the mountaineers and he is assuring fans that there will be no lack of real football when his charges take the field Thursday afternoon.

Under the direction of Coach Mohr who is of the modern school of girl mentors, Wilberforce has been rising to untold heights on the gridiron, and has been sweeping some of the strongest colored teams in the country in its path. Numbered among these is Simmons University of Kentucky, which team tied West Virginia 7 to 7, and was in turn defeated by Wilberforce 21 to 0.

Coach Mohr has several former high school stars he wants to show off Thursday afternoon before the holiday crowd and these boys are said to be eligible for fast company. Captain Tripp and several other regulars will play their last game for Wilberforce in the West Virginia encounter. The game starts at two o'clock.

OLD ALUMNI GAMES ARE MISSED BY FANS ONE GAME CARDED

Football fans this season are missing more than ever the usual Thanksgiving Day football game which in former years played such an important part in the seasonal gridiron activities.

The grid fan Thursday found that he could not appease his usual Thanksgiving Day football appetite any place in the city, and that the nearest game available was the Wilberforce-West Virginia Institute clash at Wilberforce Thursday afternoon.

This is a condition that has not existed for years and was occasioned by the abandonment of the usual high school and alumni clash several years ago and the more recent action of the American Legion, eleven and the Imperial A. C. team to play no games on Thanksgiving Day.

In former years the annual clash between the central high eleven and a team composed of alumni of the school who had not been out of school more than two years, was the much-looked forward to grid classic of the year, and a fitting Thanksgiving Day battle that drew immense crowds.

Because of the number of former stars usually seen in the line-up of the graduate eleven, the interest in the game was always increased, the team usually having a great following among the alumni. The high school eleven on the other hand, was always strongly supported by the student body. Much preparation was made for the annual classic, the alumni team preparing for weeks in advance, practicing regularly and being organized with a captain and manager. The games were all warmly contested and heated encounters, spectators participating in the tense feeling along with the players.

The alumni games were abandoned several years ago, apparently through lack of a leader in the alumni to stir up interest and organize a team. At that time interest in independent football was on the rise, and the game booked by the independent place usually filled the void made by the dropping of the annual alumni contest. This year, for the first time, two teams that have been playing independent football here, have not booked a game, and the city will be without a football contest as a settler for turkey dinners.

Many fans are anticipating flocking to the game at Wilberforce in lieu of a game here, and fans who have seen the colored athletes perform on the gridiron this year, claim these fans are not going to be disappointed in Coach Dean Mohr's outfit, if they are anxious to see real football.

HOLIDAY FOOTBALL INTEREST CENTERS AT WILBERFORCE U.

The colored collegiate championship of the United States will hang in the balance when Wilberforce University and the team from the West Virginia Collegiate Institute tangle at Wilberforce Thursday afternoon, in the only grid classic staged for the county.

Coach Dean Mohr of the Greene County eleven has been pointing Captain Tripp and his aids all season for this final Turkey Day set-to with the mountaineers and he is assuring fans that there will be no lack of real football when his charges take the field Thursday afternoon.

Under the direction of Coach Mohr who is of the modern school of grid mentors, Wilberforce has been rising to untold heights on the gridiron, and has been sweeping some of the strongest colored teams in the country in its path. Numbered among these is Simmons University of Kentucky, which team tied West Virginia 7 to 7, and was in turn defeated by Wilberforce 21 to 0.

Coach Mohr has several former high school stars he wants to show off Thursday afternoon before the holiday crowd and these boys are said to be eligible for fast company. Captain Tripp and several other regulars will play their last game for Wilberforce in the West Virginia encounter. The game starts at two o'clock.
